REDS REFUSE TRUCE; ALLIES PLAN 2 SHOT IN BANDIT BATTLE ON STREET CAR

MOTORMAN HIT AS THIEF DUELS POLICE OFFICER

Crowd in Panic; Holdup Escapes.

A bandit, one of four who had just held up a citizen, fought a duel with a policeman on a speeding Western avenue street car early this morning. During the fusillade of a dozen or more shots two men were wounded, one probably fatally. The robber, fighting as he backed off the car and into the darkness, apparently was unhurt. He escaped.

He Gives the Alarm.

At about 2:15 o'clock Policeman James Flynn was patrolling his beat in the vicinity of Logan boulevard and Western avenue when a breathless man rushed up to him.

"I've just been robbed down the street here half a block," he gasped. "Four men—"

A Western avenue car was passing slowly. "I think they got on that car," the robber's victim said.

Officer Flynn ran after the car and climbed aboard. As he entered the back door he saw a man—one of about twenty passengers—turn round in the front of the car and pull a revolver.

Start Battle on Car.

Officer Flynn beat the bandit to it. He began shooting. The robber returned the fire.

There was a panic among the passengers. The motorman, Pavel, up in front, brought the car to a sudden halt. Then he grabbed the controller and started for the door that leads to the rear.

Shoots the Motorman.

Flynn was pushing him hard. The bandit fell around and found the outer door of the car, while with his gun hand he kept pumping bullets at the policeman. He got hold of the door and held it open and carefully stepped backwards to the street.

But his aim was thrown wide by his backward step and one of the shots intended for the policeman hit the motorman in the breast.

Then as Flynn jumped to the street in pursuit of the thief, the latter's aim went wild again and a bullet hit Barrett, who was standing on the corner at Fullerton.

The Trail Is Lost.

The bandit ran half a block up Western avenue and took to an alley. Policeman Flynn followed him, but lost the trail in the dark.

ACTOR IS HURT IN WILD CLUB NIGHT; MCGRAW VANISHES

New York, Aug. 8.—[Special.]—After what was described to the police as a "wild night" in the Lamb's club, John J. McGraw, manager and part owner of the New York Giants baseball team, went home about 1 o'clock this morning. With him were John C. Slavin, the musical comedy comedian, and Winnifred Leggett, described as a retired naval officer.

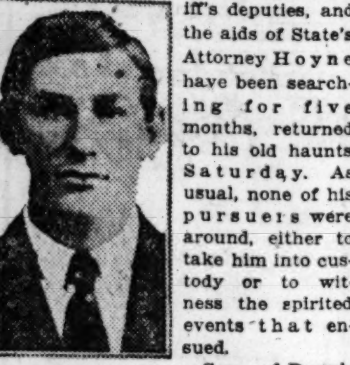

McGraw entered the house. Leggett and Slavin, a taxi driver, found Slavin lying on the sidewalk. He was unconscious. At a hospital doctors said late tonight Slavin, still unconscious, was suffering from bruises and a skull fracture.

Detectors tonight were mystified. They said their inquiry during the day indicated the possibility that Mr. Slavin had fallen and his head had struck the pavement.

The detectives said the mysterious element was what has been described to them as a quarrel in the Lamb's earlier in the evening between McGraw and an actor, whose identity is a mystery.

"SONNY" DUNN DROPS IN; PULLS GUN; FOES RUN

Bartender Disarms Him; He Vanishes.

Slippery Sonny Dunn, the gunman, for whom the police, the sheriff's deputies, and the aids of State's Attorney Hoyne have been searching for five months, returned to his old haunts Saturday. As usual, none of his pursuers were around, either to take him into custody or to witness the spirited events that ensued.

Appears in Green Auto.

The gunman drove up halted street in a big car. It was dark green and covered with dust. It looked as though it may have come from Argo—or nearby—for that's where "Sonny" has been hanging out these last long twenty weeks, according to reports.

Two pals of Dunn were with him in the car, together with a boyish-looking driver. They drove to Forty-third and Union streets—Pat Sullivan's saloon. Then Dunn got out and went inside.

Fred James, who "Sonny" knows, was leaning up against the bar. The last time Fred saw "Sonny" was the night Policeman Richard Burke was shot, "he said. And smiling Jack O'Brien, pal of James, went to the saloon for the crime—but not before he had confessed that Dunn had vanished from the authorities' ken. It has been declared that there's an oath to get "Sonny" whenever it is expedient.

"Sonny" Draws a Gun.

When Dunn walked into the saloon and saw James talking there, he said, according to the witnesses: "Hello, you low down—"

"I hear that you and the O'Brien and 'Tim' Murphy bunch are out to get me." He drew his gun.

The place was crowded at the time—and empty just a moment later. Most of the spectators tore the boards from a high fence just in the rear. Others catapulted to the sidewalk—then sped down the street. Some ran two blocks down to Forty-first. One man climbed a nearby pole.

Bartender Disarms Him.

The bartender was game, however. He jumped the bar and grabbed the desperado's "gat." It is said, and then, with a slight wrist twist, he drew the gunman's teeth.

"No shootin' here!" he growled at Sonny. "We don't stand nothin' funny from you birds! You 'can' 'tuff and 'can' it quick! Gimme it! I'll keep it for you, so you won't get hurt!"

Then, say the witnesses, "Sonny" went away. Outside he sent a kid in for his confiscated weapon. He needed it, he said. It was returned to him and "Sonny" Dunn, his pals, and the green car faded away.

The state's attorney wants Dunn most of all of the law enforcing officers. A bail bond of $2,000 for Dunn has been forfeited.

THE REIGN OF TERROR.

The era of terror started among the flat dwellers a month ago. At that time William Baker reported to the janitor that his flat had been entered and $40 and several articles of clothing taken. The janitor, J. Conn, hurried to the Cottage Grove avenue station and talked to the police.

The next night as he was entering the building he was set upon by two young men.

"You're the man who squealed on us," they said. Their fists flew and Conn occupied a bed for two days recovering. Word of the attack was sent out to the tenants.

Robbers Have Own Way. Since that time the robbers have had things their own way.

As the tail-light disappeared behind the trees lining the broad white driveway, the tall young man found his voice.

"Chauffeur!" he exclaimed. "Well, be gosh, be gosh! Old Tom chauffeur. Wouldn't that jar a fixed star! I ask you."

He was staring off in the direction the car had taken. Lucille Morland regarded him with impatient curiosity.

"A friend of yours?" she asked. And as he continued to stare without answering, her eyes narrowed in a slight frown.

"O, a thousand pardons! Awfully sorry. Like seeing a ghost, you know. Great mystery." They entered the car and whirled out of the Elysian Fields club grounds scarcely two minutes after Tom.

As they struck the open road and the car leaped forward at a terrific speed, Miss Morland turned a quick questioning glance toward her companion.

Something in his face aroused sudden alarm. "Harry," she exclaimed, clutching his arm. "No! so fast! Please don't drive so fast."

"My old car's always kind of restless after she's been standing," he remarked amiably. "She'll slow down pretty soon. Got to humor her, y'know, Lucie. Got to humor 'er." He turned a smiling face toward her, and the car swerved dizzily.

"O Harry, please slow down! I'm terrified! You shouldn't be driving in your condition. Please, Harry, please!" A red tail-light gleamed ahead of them.

"Please be careful!" She shut her eyes as she shot past with a scant six inches leeway, so she did not notice that it was her own roadster. But for a few roaring moments its headlights glared over them and Tom recognized Miss Morland's hat.

"Wow!" he exclaimed. "She's likely to end up in a ditch!"

Two minutes later his lights picked up something in the roadway ahead. Swerving quickly, he brought the car to a stop and ran back to where a huddled, silent figure was lying. Off to one side were the remains of a crushed bicycle.

Tom shouted and blew his horn several times, till presently a light appeared in the windows of a house back among the trees. Confused voices were heard and two men came running out.

"A man's been hurt," shouted Tom. "He's still alive. Where's the nearest hospital?"

They stooped down, and one directed a harsh question at Tom.

"How'd you happen to hit him?"

"Great Scott!" exclaimed Tom. "I didn't hit him. It was the car ahead of me. I just came up."

There was no response to this, and the men silently lifted the body into Tom's car.

"We'll go with you," one said in a hard voice. "There's too much wild driving on this road. It's got to be stopped."

At the hospital in Rivington a hasty examination of the injured man showed a flicker of life still remaining, but the doctor shook his head gravely.

Shortly two officers arrived and questioned Tom. It was obvious that they did not believe his story. And during the examination the two men from the scene of action interposed frequent hostile comments.

"You say you didn't hit him?" asked one of the officers.

"I found him in the road. He had evidently been hit by another car a very short time before."

"Well, son, I guess we'll have to hold you." But when further questioning revealed that he worked for the Alert garage, and was driving for Miss Lucille Morland, daughter of Henry Morland, they conferred again.

Tom overheard the name "Morland" repeated frequently. One officer seemed to be for releasing him, the other for holding him. After a time they agreed.

"No, I'm a stranger," Tom answered. This seemed to decide their course of action.

WARSAW FORTS BOMBARDED BY THE RUSSIANS

Government Stays; Civilians Flee.

BULLETIN.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
WARSAW, Aug. 8.—That point of the Red line nearest Warsaw drew back a little today and indications are that soviet Russia is passing her troops for a big smash in anticipation of sweeping through to the capital.

The Poles have lost contact completely in the sector between the Narawa and Bug rivers on the northwestern front, opening a line of march directly down the chaussee toward Warsaw.

A second menace appeared today almost directly west of Warsaw where substantial Red units forced the west bank of the Bug river near Sokolo. Heavy fighting continues at that point.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—[By the Associated Press.]—The outer forts of Warsaw have been under bombardment since Friday morning, says a wireless dispatch received from Berlin today. The Poles are returning the bolshevik fire.

REDS NEARER WARSAW

WARSAW, Aug. 8.—[By the Associated Press.]—The heaviest fighting since the bolsheviks began their offensive a month ago is now developing along the Bug river, where both sides are throwing in all the forces at their command.

The Reds are gradually creeping up on Warsaw. They are reported now to be only sixty kilometers (37½ miles) away.

Towns and points of vantage are changing hands daily, but the Polish official communique interprets the battle as successful for the Poles.

Poles Take Two Towns.

Terespol finally has been retaken by the Poles. It has changed hands several times. South of Brest-Litovsk, where the Poles drove the Reds across the Bug, the Poles have taken Mokran.

Along the Bug there is fighting in the region of Halkinow, where the Poles are counter-attacking, and at Sokolow, which the Reds are attacking.

In the region of Janow, west of the Bug, three hundred Reds surrendered after having achieved successes which brought them across the river.

Red Gains Reported.

Red gains are reported west of Brest-Litovsk, the Reds having reached Plozecz where the Poles are putting up a stiff fight.

Hostilities are going on all along the southern front but there has been no gain for the Reds.

On the Narawa river, northeast of Warsaw, has been captured by the bolsheviks after a two days' fight.

The bolsheviks now have reached a point seventy kilometers northeast of Warsaw.

Polish Rulers to Stay.

Premier Witos, in a statement to the Polish newspaper men today, said the government would remain in Warsaw indefinitely.

Asked regarding the foreign legations, the premier said representatives desiring to stay with the government would do so on their own responsibility.

It is announced that Cardinal Radzinski, papal nuncio at Warsaw, will remain in Warsaw if the capital falls into the hands of the bolsheviks.

Thousands of men are working on Warsaw's defenses on the east bank of the Vistula, the great semi-circle taking in the fortified towns of Nowogrodziec, Modlin, Segew, Siedce, and Ivangorod.

SITUATION IS DESPERATE

PARIS, Aug. 8.—Poland's situation is desperate. It seems clear that the Moscow government has no intention to suspend hostilities, but is striving to the utmost to capture Warsaw.

RUSSO-POLISH CRISIS SHOWN IN LATE BULLETINS

BY GEORGE SELDES.
(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
(By Special Cable.)

BERLIN, Aug. 8.—It is reported from Warsaw that the vatican's envoy has informed the Polish government that the pope intends to issue a call to all Christian nations to unite in saving Poland from the bolsheviks.

The Hungarian delegation has arrived in Warsaw, offering troops, munitions, and wheat to Vice Minister Dachinski.

WARSAW, Aug. 8.—[By the Associated Press.]—The entire police force of Warsaw—1,000 strong—armed with new English rifles, has left for the front.

WARSAW, Aug. 7.—[Delayed.]—[By the Associated Press.]—A plot, believed to have been of communist origin and designed to blow up general army headquarters, has been discovered in Warsaw.

Many persons have been arrested and great quantities of arms and ammunition confiscated in the old Russian cathedral, which is situated just across the street from the army offices.

BERLIN, Aug. 8.—A special message to the Vossische Zeitung from Proskien, East Prussia, says the bolsheviks have assessed the city of Bialystok 500,000,000 Polish marks and seized the principal manufacturers.

ALLIES' TERMS FOR A TRUCE BETWEEN REDS AND POLES

LONDON, Aug. 8.—[By the Associated Press.]—The memorandum presented to the Russian emissaries by Premier Lloyd George last Friday proposed a truce to run from midnight of Aug. 9-10 on these conditions:

FIRST—The Poles to refrain from re-equipping their armies and moving troops and munitions, and the soviet to refrain from strengthening their front.

SECOND—The allies to refrain from sending troops or munitions to Poland.

THIRD—Soviet representatives to be stationed at Danzig or any other point to see that the terms were carried out, on the condition that they refrain from propaganda.

FOURTH—The Russian and Polish delegates to meet to define lines between the armies, and to arrange armistice conditions.

BANK PRESIDENT, OPIUM VICTIM, DEAD IN GOTHAM

New York, Aug. 8.—E. H. Crim, said to be president of a bank at Philadelphia, Pa., died at a hospital here today from acute opium poisoning, according to physicians. He was registered at the Pennsylvania hotel, but early this morning was found unconscious in the room of James Keedy in West Fifty-fourth street. Keedy said he did not know Crim nor how he reached there. There were only 75 cents in Crim's pockets, although friends said he usually carried large sums of money with him.

Bomb Thrown at Home of Colored Family; No Harm

A bomb was thrown into the yard of William Jackson, colored, at 445 East Forty-eighth place, last night. It did no damage. The Jacksons moved into the place two weeks ago.

Two men stole $400 from the safe of Henry J. Krueger, druggist, at 1428 East Fifty-seventh street, last night as he was closing up.

WAR COUNCIL CALLED TO AID POLES IN TRAP

"World's Darkest Day Since 1914."

HYTHE, England, Aug. 8.—(By the Associated Press.)—The bolshevik government has refused the proposition contained in the British government's last note to conclude a ten days' truce with Poland.

On the receipt of this decision David Lloyd George, the British prime minister, and M. Millerand, the French premier, began discussion of the best means for immediately assisting Poland.

Blow to Lloyd George.

The rejection by the bolshevik of the British proposal for an immediate ten days' truce with Poland, made as a result of Premier Lloyd George's conference last Friday with M. Kamenef and M. Krassin, the bolshevik representatives now in London, reached Mr. Lloyd George and Premier Millerand this morning while they were in conference at the home of Sir Philip Sassoon, at Lympne, near here. It came as a severe blow to Mr. Lloyd George's peace efforts.

The bolshevik refusal of a truce resulted in the conference assuming a very warlike aspect, and the best and quickest means of giving Poland all possible aid to stem the bolshevik tide were immediately discussed by the premiers.

Allies Looking to Foch.

The foremost subject was the tentative decision to reimpose the naval and economic blockade on Russia and also the steps necessary to insure the free passage of munitions and supplies from Danzig to Poland.

Marshal Foch and Field Marshal Sir Henry Wilson took a prominent part in the morning discussion, and it has been learned from an official source that allied aid for Poland will center in Marshal Foch.

In the event of a final break in the negotiations with the Moscow government it is believed France will bear the burden of land aid, while Great Britain will assume full responsibility for the imposition of the blockade.

Not a Final Refusal.

While the bolshevik refusal of a truce is said not to be final, and there was mention of some counter proposal, the premiers decided to complete all plans for Poland's assistance and then to wait a final reply from Moscow.

The memorandum for the truce was drafted at Friday's meeting between Mr. Lloyd George and MM. Krassin and Kamenef and sent by wireless to Moscow for an immediate reply.

The purpose of the truce was to halt the bolshevik onward rush on the ground they now occupy and to arrange a temporary peace within the next ten days. The Poles and the allies were to agree not to improve the Polish military position, while the bolsheviks were to remain on the line they occupied on the day of the truce.

Defectors 'Shoo' Reporters.

After the arrival of the French party at Lympne, a cordon was thrown around the residence of Sir Philip Sassoon. The approach

BANDITS RETURN; BEAT INFORMER, THEN ROB AT WILL

16 Families Fear to Report Losses.

It became the duty last night of Detective Sergeant Julius S. Glenn to inform occupants of sixteen apartments in the building at 3634-36 Michigan avenue that there not only is a police department in Chicago but that the principal function of that department is to protect citizens.

Working on a telephone tip the detective discovered that not less than five robberies had been committed in the building and that the persons robbed were afraid to notify the police because the robbers returned after the first theft and beat up the janitor who reported the robbery.

The assault on the janitor frightened him to such an extent that he was backward in discussing the matter with the detective. At first he emphatically denied knowledge of such an occurrence.

The Reign of Terror. The era of terror started among the flat dwellers a month ago. At that time William Baker reported to the janitor that his flat had been entered and $40 and several articles of clothing taken. The janitor, J. Conn, hurried to the Cottage Grove avenue station and talked to the police.

The next night as he was entering the building he was set upon by two young men.

"You're the man who squealed on us," they said. Their fists flew and Conn occupied a bed for two days recovering. Word of the attack was sent out to the tenants.

Robbers Have Own Way. Since that time the robbers have had things their own way.

Joseph Brown was held up, but had no money at the time. The apartment owned by Harry Rosen was entered and $75 was taken. Robbers took a large amount of money from the flat occupied by Alina De Lac, a dressmaker. Yesterday morning it was discovered the basement storerooms had been rifled and several articles of clothing had been taken.

MIDNIGHT DUEL IN CENTRAL PARK; WOMEN SECONDS

New York Police Investigating Shooting.

New York, Aug. 8.—The police tonight started an investigation of a midnight duel in the heart of Central park, where a man was reported shot in the presence of two women seconds.

Following word that a man had been found suffering from a bullet wound, George Norton, a cab driver, reported he had driven two men and two women to a lonely spot there, where they had alighted.

A few minutes later the women and one of the men reentered the taxi and ordered Norton, at the point of a pistol, to take them to Forty-second street and Ninth avenue, where they disappeared.

The police said the wounded man was Frederick Acquila, a 23 year old Cuban designer. He had a bullet wound in his right hand.

Norton said he had heard shots fired in the park.

SAILORS BATTLE POLICE HOURS; FIVE WOUNDED

Revere, Mass., Aug. 8.—Five sailors were severely wounded and a score of men received minor injuries in a battle at Revere beach tonight between the Metropolitan park police and officers who were harried in the police station and several hundred attacking sailors, marines, and soldiers. Available reports late tonight showed none killed.

The battle, which was precipitated by the attempt of a police officer to arrest a sailor on a charge of drunkenness, raged for more than two hours and was only quelled when troops from Fort Banks in Boston harbor, sailors from the Charlestown navy yard, and police from adjoining cities came to the assistance of the beleaguered metropolitan officers.

At midnight troops, with fixed bayonets were patrolling the beach.

of the newspaper men was the signal for a mobilization of the detective forces.

The Millerand party included M. Berthelot, director of political affairs at the foreign office, Gen. De Sictor de la Panouse, chief of the French military mission in England.

With Mr. Lloyd George were Earl Curzon of Kedleston, the British foreign secretary, Admiral Baron Beatty, commander of the great fleet; Arthur J. Balfour, and Lieut. Col. Sir Maurice Hankey, secretary of the committee on imperial defense.

Balfour Presence a Surprise.
A last minute decision to include Mr. Balfour in today's meeting came as a surprise to British and French circles, and was the cause of much speculation.

The accepted view was that Lloyd George desired to avail himself of the mature experience of a statesman such as Mr. Balfour in the present crisis, the acuteness of which there is no attempt to minimize in either the French or the British delegation.

Great Britain and France are convinced that the bolsheviks intend to capture Warsaw and set up a soviet government in Poland.

This was learned from an official source following an announcement that the conference would continue tomorrow, when the premiers will pass upon naval, military and economic plans for saving Poland.

While there has been no talk of officially declaring war on Russia, the allies have decided to give Poland all possible military, naval and economic assistance without delay.

The French are urging the establishment of a defensive line in Poland, either before Warsaw or immediately behind the capital if it is too late for the former. M. Millerand also proposed that the French and British troops in the plebiscite areas be used for this line, chiefly for moral support, and that Roumania and Czechoslovakia also be asked to send troops.

Two Notes from Russia.
It was learned that the premiers received two notes from Moscow today in answer to Mr. Lloyd George's request for a truce. Tonight they sent another note to the soviet and also advised Poland to seek a truce direct from the bolsheviks, who indicated in their refusal of the truce that if the request came direct from the Poles it might have a better chance of being granted.

One of the notes received from the bolsheviks today said a meeting of the Poles and Russians had been called for Minsk next Wednesday and that the bolsheviks preferred to make their own arrangements with the Poles.

Warning to Germany.
At the close of the conference, which lasted until well after 6 o'clock this evening, M. Millerand presented for the approval of the British delegates a declaration he had drafted.

The substance of this constituted a warning to Germany that if an attempt is made in any way to cooperate with the bolshevik army of the Ruhr region and other points in German territory, Mr. Lloyd George has not yet indicated his approval of the declaration, but French circles believe he will agree to it, and that the warning will be conveyed to Germany either directly or by an allied declaration.

REDS TO WITHDRAW?

LONDON, Aug. 8.—By the Associated Press.—Russia is ready to start withdrawal of her forces to the line stipulated in 1918 by the supreme council, providing Poland agrees to the armistice terms, according to a statement issued by the Russian delegation in London today.

Before receipt in Moscow of the note dispatched as a result of Friday's conference between Premier Lloyd George and Leo Kamenef of the Russian delegation, today's announcement says:

Defending the Hearths of Poland

Polish women, who have helped their men in slowing up the bolshevik advance into the little republic. Standing in the rear is Dr. Zagorska, the best known woman commander in the defeated armies. (Central News Photo.)

The soviet government instructed its delegation to communicate to the British government the following statement:

"Resultant on acceptance by Poland of the armistice terms, which will deal principally with reduction of her armed strength, the soviet republic will be prepared to begin withdrawal of her troops on this line if the allies, particularly France, undertake not to advance and not to support any advance against soviet Russia on any front, and to withdraw Gen. Wrangel's army from the Crimea."

Poles Finally Send Reply.
This statement was immediately transmitted to Premier Lloyd George and later a new communication was received from Moscow.

"A half hour before the British government's notes of Saturday were delivered to the soviet government," the new communication declares, "the latter received at last from Warsaw the Polish government's answer that it was ready to accept proposals to send delegates to Minsk for the conclusion of an armistice and the adoption of peace preliminaries."

"This document is a continuation of the negotiations inaugurated July 31 at Baranovitchi, where the Russian delegates declared their readiness to begin negotiations for an armistice and peace preliminaries as soon as the Polish government would inform the Russian delegates by wireless that full powers to that effect had been sent their delegates."

The communication then points out the Polish delegation interrupted the negotiations and returned to Warsaw and that thus 106 hours elapsed. The delay in concluding the armistice, it adds, was not in the least an outcome of Russia's desires.

Plans for Warsaw's Envoy.
Within a few hours of the receipt of Poland's message, the present communication explains, the Russian government replied, noting Poland's comment to negotiate a truce and peace preliminaries, and announced Russian delegates would arrive at Minsk Aug. 11. The Russian government proposed to the Polish delegates to cross the line at the Russian front on the road between Siedlce and Brest-Litovsk at 5 p. m. Aug. 9.

While informing the British government of these arrangements, the Russian government expresses belief that in this way the object of which the British government aims—namely, cessation of hostilities and resumption of peaceful relations between Russia and Poland, and the full independence of Poland, will be attained in the speediest and simplest way by direct negotiation.

In conclusion the communication says: "The Russian government, therefore, thinks the British government doubtless will acknowledge that the latter's proposal, so far as it really aims at the above mentioned object, is being fully covered by the impending Minsk conference."

being fully covered by the impending Minsk conference."

POLES UP IN AIR

WARSAW, Aug. 8.—[By the Associated Press.]—Poland's efforts to send a wireless note to Moscow concerning the Minsk conference have resulted in a tangle of uncertainties.

The latest foreign office announcement says the Moscow wireless operator answered Warsaw's call and Warsaw then sent the note, but Moscow did not acknowledge receipt of it.

The Poles then duplicated the note by way of Norway, with a request that Norway use every effort to relay it to Moscow. The Norwegians agreed to do this, but since then nothing has been heard concerning the matter.

OUTLOOK MIGHTY DARK

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
HYTHE, England, Aug. 8.—Shortly after the bolshevik truce refusal was received by the allied conference here one of the leading officials said:

"The outlook for the world is darker than since 1914."

Arthur J. Balfour joined the conference this morning, but Minister of War Churchill was not present.

On the arrival of the French this morning a large guard of honor was drawn up on the pier. The guests were cheered by a great crowd of residents and visitors with whom the town now is filled.

ASK PEACE, NO TRUCE

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
BERLIN, Aug. 8.—An intercepted Moscow wireless informs Poland that Russia unconditionally demands a peace conference, not an armistice.

M. Tchicherin, the bolshevik minister of foreign affairs, declares he has been informed that Poland seeks an armistice only because of the huge reinforcements and ammunition from the east that are en route. Poland, during the armistice, intends to reorganize its army, continuing the war. Therefore Tchicherin insists on peace or war.

drive on Warsaw in conjunction with the movement of troops from the east. There is no doubt that the bolsheviks have crossed the Bug river on a wide front. The Poles, however, have thrown up defenses west of the river, and French military opinion, based on the fatigue of the bolsheviks and the faulty supply department, maintains that the Poles have a chance of winning the great battle for the capital.

COLLAPSE OF POLAND

COLOGNE, Aug. 8.—[By the Associated Press.]—The situation in Poland has developed into a military catastrophe and there is a complete internal collapse, says a dispatch to the Cologne Gazette from Warsaw.

The French military authorities, the dispatch continues, are reported to have hastily approached the German consulate for passports for all members of the French mission. The German clerical forces were unable to issue the passports speedily enough, so that three French majors joined the staff to expedite the work.

Poland's one military hope—Hallier's volunteer army—is proving a disappointment, notwithstanding the fact that it made heroic efforts to stem the onrush on the northern front, during the course of which it sustained heavy losses.

Great Successes Are Built in Off Years!!

IN easy times—freak periods like we recently have I had—many concerns drift to success. But drifting does not develop business sinew. So that rough-going shows up the laggards—and the leaders.

All "off" years bring out the masters. They progress by driving tactics and their drive shows greater in contrast to the slowing speed of rivals.

These are wonderful days to undertake advertising to cure for all time the depressions that come because your business has no more momentum than the speed of the general current of trade.

Our experienced organization can help you diagnose what kind of advertising you need, where to place it and how to utilize it. A conference will prove interesting and entails no obligation.

O. P. JUBILANT FALLACIES IN COX MANIFESTO

to Accept Battle Upon Governor's Terms.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Dayton, O., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—The presidential campaign will get well underway this week. The Cox speech of acceptance has made the major issue between the two great parties. The Ohio primaries will be held Tuesday, leaving the stage clear for the two Ohio contenders for the White House prize.

There is little of national significance in the state fight. It is a three-cornered Republican fight in both senatorial and gubernatorial contests.

Harding Staff Hits Speech.

Senator Harding remained at home today, giving out no direct opinion on the Cox speech. His headquarters, however, prepared a statement attacking the governor's speech, and all of his principal opponents, both parties, and left it clear that the most urgent task before the country is to get the administration into the hands of business men competent to take care of it, and to get the country's international relations into the hands of those who are Americans rather than internationalists.

Commenting on the Cox charge that the Republican congress had not made any effort to lift the load of war taxes from the people, the statement pointed out that the Republican majority in a year reduced the taxes by $1,144,143. This was by appropriation, not by the Democrats in office.

"Cox Distorts Facts."

"Because of Republican economy there will be a surplus for the same period of $1,100,000,000. A leadership which would distort these outstanding facts as Gov. Cox has done, will hardly command confidence when it turns attention to the problems of our fiscal policy."

League Remarks Attacked.

As to the league of nations issue, it is pointed out that Cox bitterly attacked the senate majority that insisted on Americanizing the president's covenant.

"He assumed," says the Harding headquarters statement, "that the senate was designed to subvert, and did subvert, the wish and purpose of the American people in preventing ratification of the president's league. On that issue the Republican party is ready to join battle before the country."

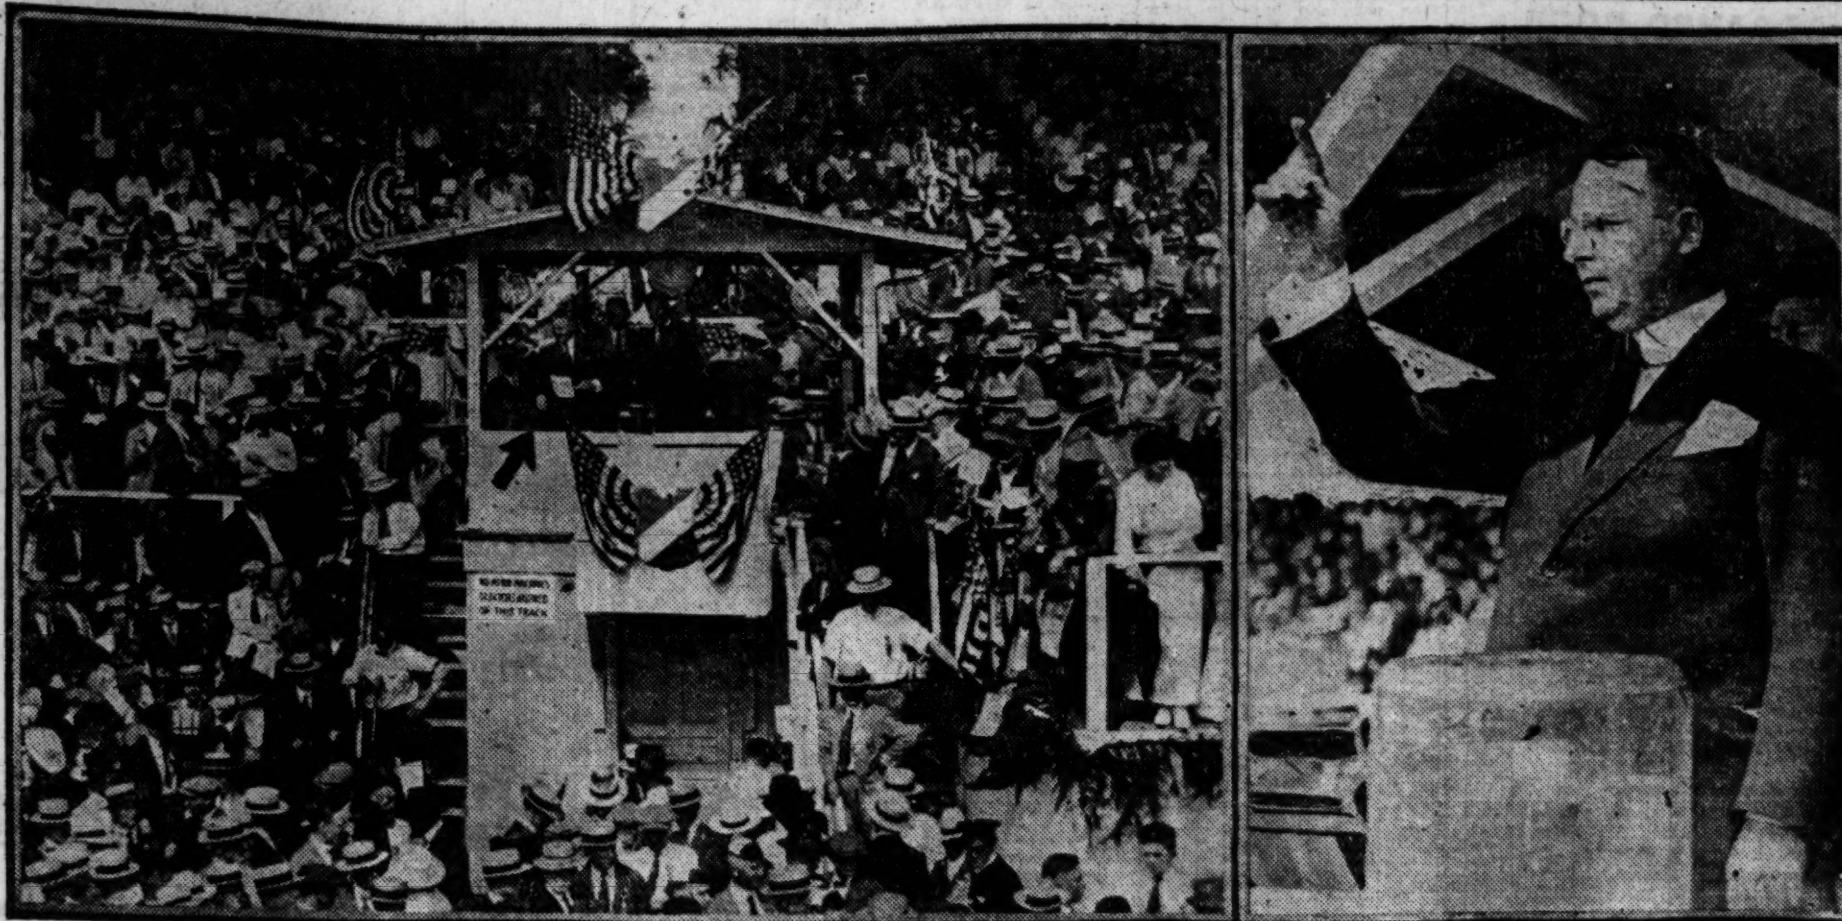

Barely less than half the Democratic senators, plus all the Republican senators, supported the Lodge reservations.

Mr. Roosevelt leaves New York Tuesday evening, arriving in Chicago on the following afternoon and opening his campaign tour in the Auditorium theater on Wednesday evening.

CAPITAL CRIES HOSANNAS FOR COX OBEISANCE

League Plan Cheers the White House.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—Any doubt that the Democratic nominee for the presidency had acceptably complied with President Wilson's desire that adoption of the league of nations covenant, without impairing reservations, be made the paramount issue of the campaign, has been dispelled.

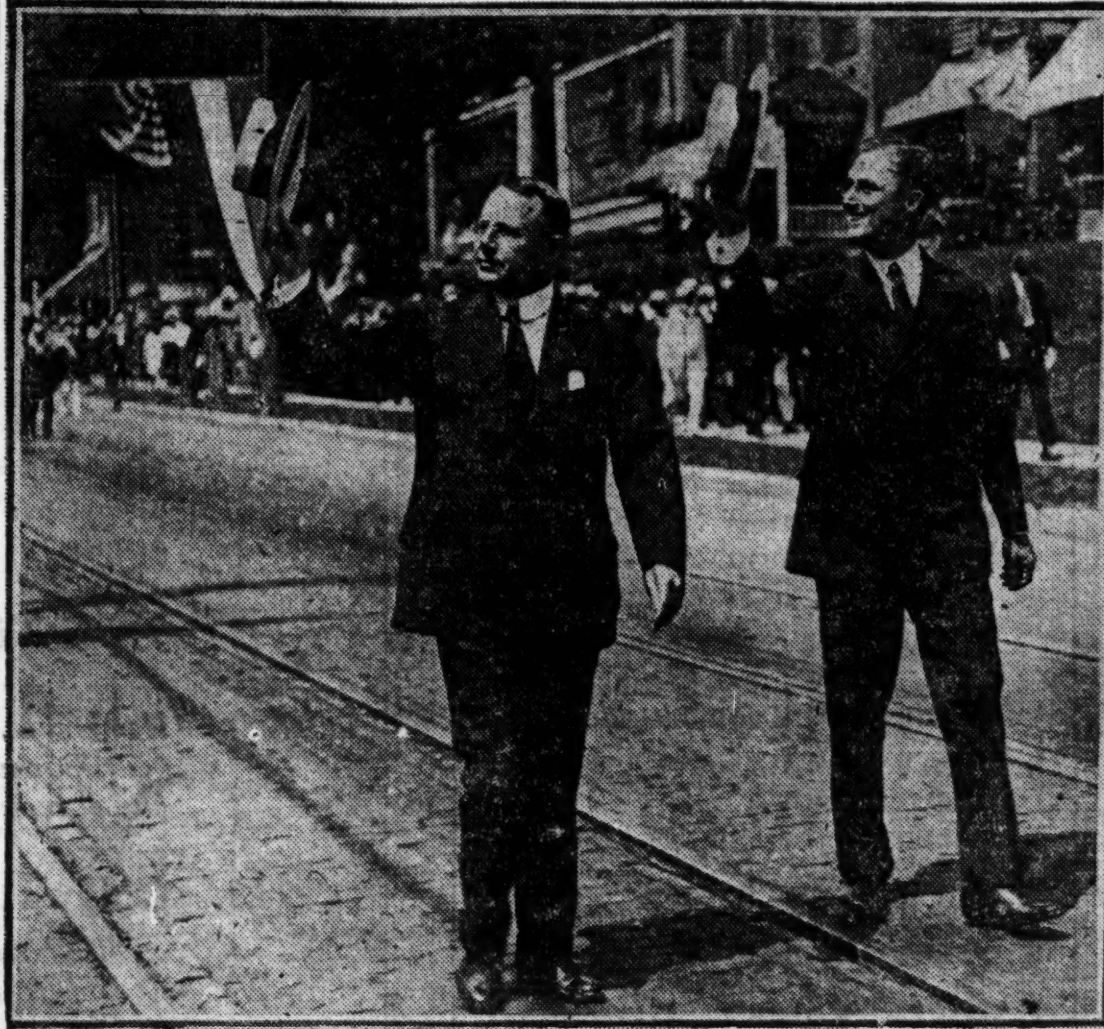

Although the president, who has had a copy of Gov. Cox's acceptance speech in his possession for nearly a week, preserved silence today, there was a chorus of approval of the utterance from administration officials, led by Secretary of State Coby, who was chosen for his office because his mind would "go along" with Mr. Wilson's.

It is assumed, therefore, that Mr. Cox would not have praised the governor so fulsomely had he not known he was echoing the president's views.

White House Is Satisfied.

The administration view is that Gov. Cox has performed admirably in inaugurating "the great and solemn referendum" on the question of American adherence to the covenant. He is in favor of the United States joining the league.

Gov. Cox is for ratification of the peace treaty without change of the terms of the covenants, and pledges himself to endeavor, if elected, to procure this accomplishment, although in the event of a Democratic landslide two-thirds of the next senate cannot possibly be mustered for the covenant without the vital changes he opposes.

NATIONAL CAMPAIGN —IN BRIEF—

DAYTON, O.—Gov. Cox arranges campaign itinerary which will cover available speaking dates to Sept. 3, when his western trip begins. Democratic leaders pleased with acceptance speech.

MARION, O.—While Senator Harding was silent, his headquarters staff issued a statement attacking Gov. Cox's speech in its economic phase and league of nations commitment of his party.

COX DECIDES ON LONG SUMMER SPEAKING TOUR

Tells Phonograph America
Must Enter League.

BY ROBERT B. SMITH.

Dayton, O., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—Gov. James M. Cox will launch his national stumping tour next Thursday with a speech at Camp Perry, O., Senator Pat Harrison, Mississippi, chairman of the Democratic speakers' bureau, said today, after a conference with the governor. The campaign schedule was made public by Senator Harrison, as follows:

Aug. 12, Camp Perry.—Here he will present the Ohio governor's cup to the winner of the national rifle contest.

Aug. 14, Wheeling, W. Va.—Afternoon address to the West Virginia Democratic state convention, and night mass meetings.

Aug. 17, Columbus, O.—Address to the state Democratic convention.

Meets Democratic Editors.

Aug. 19, South Bend, Ind.—Annual convention of the Democratic editors of Indiana.

Aug. 21, Canton, O.—Address to Democrats from the northeastern corner of Ohio.

Aug. 25, Evansville, Ind.—Large meeting arranged.

Aug. 27, Pittsburgh, Pa.—Western Pennsylvania Democrats.

Aug. 28, New York, N. Y.—Speech at the policemen's annual field meet, Sheepshead Bay.

Sept. 2.—Return to Columbus to convention of Ohio farmers.

He will leave Sept. 2 for the west and will speak in every western state during September.

Gov. Cox motored to Dayton from Tralstead today to speak into a phonograph.

Tells Phonograph of League.

"I am in favor of going in," he spoke into the machine, referring to the league of nations. "This is the supreme test. Shall we act in concert with the free nations of the world in setting up a tribunal which will avert wars in the future? This question must be met and answered honestly, and not by equivocations."

"We must say in language which our own people can understand whether we shall unite with our former allies to make effective the only plan of peace and reconstruction which has been formulated, or whether we propose to play a lone hand in the world and guard our isolation with a huge army and an ever increasing navy, with all the consequent burdens of taxation. I repeat, I favor going in."

FRENCH TRUST POLISH SOLDIER TO TURN TIDE

Broke When Tired Against Odds; Can Come Back.

BY PAUL WILLIAMS.
(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
[By Special Cable.]
[Copyright, 1920, By the Tribune Company.]

PARIS, Aug. 8.—Poland's terrible reverse, which has permitted the crimson deluge to sweep to the gates of Warsaw, the Polish capital, was due to the absence of ability properly to organize, to maintain, or to direct the mobilized man power of the nation at war with Soviet Russia.

Responsibility for the crushing defeat cannot be charged to the Polish soldier. Generally he has done his duty well, has, in fact, often accomplished more than soldiers of some other nations could have done. There is not the slightest doubt that the Polish soldier has, as an individual, done all that could have been expected of him to do. To have done more than he has done would have been impossible.

The common Polish soldier spiritedly and tirelessly for a time accomplished the tasks assigned to him, but eventually he broke down under the superhuman strain. His morale went to pot and, dog tired, his principal thought became self preservation. He found this in flight.

Yet the situation in Poland is not regarded as hopeless by French military experts on the ground and they are the most competent judges. The French have not lost their confidence in the Polish soldier. They believe, properly fed, equipped and supplied and efficiently led, these same Polish soldiers could today whip the bolsheviks so thoroughly that it would be a long, long time before the Red menace would venture again off Russian soil in search of conquest.

REDS FREE YANK SERGEANT TAKEN IN MINSK DRIVE

WARSAW, Aug. 8.—[By the Associated Press.]—Sergeant William Cook of Fay, Okla., of the American typhus expedition, captured three weeks ago by the Russian bolsheviks in Minsk, has arrived here, having been released by soviet authorities. Following his release he went to Vilna and thence to Riga, where he joined a Red Cross courier coming to Warsaw.

Sergeant Cook was taken for a Polish soldier by the bolsheviks, who stripped him of everything except his underwear, and then paraded him through the streets of Minsk. When it became known he was an American, soldiers of the soviet army came for miles to see him, and he was regarded by them as a freak.

"Soldiers of the bolshevik army," Sergeant Cook said today, "are all eager to reach Warsaw, as they believe the war will end if the Polish capital is taken."

BERLIN CHUCKLES AS REDS RAP AT WARSAW'S DOOR

Soviet Victory Would Help
Germany.

BY GEORGE SELDES.
(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
[By Special Cable.]
[Copyright, 1920, By the Tribune Company.]

BERLIN, Aug. 7.—While soviet Russia is knocking with heavy artillery at the gates of Warsaw, Germany is standing by laughing in her sleeve, watching plans of the British and French go to pieces while the league of nations pact, of which she is an outcast daughter, remains, in her opinion, merely "a scrap of paper."

Germany has everything to gain and nothing to lose. At least this is the attitude of the public and the press. Should what now seems to be the inevitable bolshevik victory over Poland be deflected through activities of the allies in Poland's behalf, Germany then would stand just where she stood before the outbreak of the Red holocaust.

Neutrality Urged.
But a bolshevik victory, whether Germany made friends with soviet Russia or not, would make the position of Germany much stronger than it has been at any time since the signing of the armistice with the allies.

Today all Germany's energy is devoted to maintenance of neutrality. The radical element wants neutrality because of friendship with soviet Russia, and the conservatives because neutrality in the present conflict would prove to be Germany's best weapon against possible attempts of the entente to violate her neutrality.

By strict adherence to neutrality Germany believes that the Polish war will reach its best—to Germany—conclusion: a bolshevik victory, with its resultant strengthening of Germany's international position.

Germany as Battleground.
The Lokal Anzeiger, commenting upon the fraternizing between Russian and German communists, states: "Here is the inducement for Foch to insist upon the complete disarmament of Germany, for Germany unarmed would offer the most advantageous place for military operations. This is the real explanation of the entente disarmament demands."

"German workmen have in some places prevented the transport of entente troops, but as soon as the large bodies come, bringing their own engineering corps and railroad workers, all resistance will be in vain, and Germany's neutrality will be violated."

Speedy Peace Desired.
"Then we will suffer the misery of the passage through our land of foreign troops, billeted upon us, and the depletion of our stores by requisition, to say nothing of the brutalities of white and black French soldiers in occupied territories."

"Germany will become Europe's new battle ground unless a peace between Russia and Poland is soon effected. This salvation soon would come if France would cease meddling to prolong the war."

"France expresses the thought that Russia will soon become exhausted, but France is forgetting the fact that international war has been the elixir of life to soviet Russia."

WHAT GERMANY WANTS.
BERLIN, Aug. 8.—Dr. Walter Simons, minister of foreign affairs, in an interview in the Leipziger Volkszeitung says Germany is prepared to resume diplomatic relations with Russia the moment satisfaction is given her for the assassination of Gen. Count von Mirbach, German ambassador to Russia, who was slain in Moscow.

France to Pay U. S. Even if Germany Holds Back

New York, Aug. 8.—Regardless of whether she receives the German indemnity or not, France is prepared to meet in full her share of the $500,000,000 Anglo-French loan, due the United States in October.

The Call Is for High Grade Furniture and This Is the Sale That Answers It

We have made some bold and defiant statements about this sale. Today we invite you to put these statements to a fair test—

The Proof Is Here

Colby's collection of cabinet work and upholstery is all extremely good, unfailingly attractive, and to our positive knowledge as low in price as you are asked elsewhere for furniture that is neither good in design nor lasting in quality.

Take Time to Look Around

See our furniture sale and the other sales. Remember, it's your home to be furnished and your money. Make sure that the furniture you buy at reduced prices is not reduced in quality.

Colby's Will Not Disappoint You

We have worked for over fifty years to build up a furniture business that should be the best in Chicago, and we have it.

This Is the Safest Store in the World for Experienced Home Furnishers

Every piece of furniture must be real in design and lasting in quality to obtain a place on our sample floor.

It is our intent to furnish the customer 100% in satisfaction, and, barring accidents, we do it. Our selling service is thoroughly experienced, high grade and cheerful. It means much in selecting furniture.

This week especially we feature fine dining room sets and upholstered furniture.

The campaign is not without one of the funniest things was seeing a Russian officer on the frontier wall near Grady small stone wall, sprang from his horse and Germany. German guards.

"How about trading rubles for man?" said the Russian. German guards, with rifles shouldered, pointed angrily floor's right leg, which was over sacred German soil. "Take that leg back, then we'll trade with you German guards."

SHOUTING RUSS RIDERS GALLOP ON POLISH REAR

Foot Fighters at Mercy in Roadless Area.

BY EUGENE SZATTAMARY.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
[Copyright, 1920: By the Tribune Company.]
GRAJEVO, Poland, Aug. 8.—By dipping back into Germany frequently in the last three days I have been able to see the Polish, then with the Russians, then with the Polish armies, and rather what is left of them. Again I never was in danger of my life because, among to say, the bolsheviks as well as the others bow in respect to official looking documents with which red and green seals with which I was well armed.

Today I saw Polish reinforcements going in the direction of Ostrolenko, where their comrades feebly were holding the line, trying frantically to dig trenches under the direction of French officers. But there is a woeful shortage of trench digging instruments and any of the spades familiar on the west front are totally lacking.

Cavalry Rides Like Circus.
That will be the outcome of new resistance by the Polish army I have no doubt. Russian cavalry masses, riding small horses and shouting war cries such as I have heard only in circuses, only will crush the line and continue their thirty mile gallop to the Danzig railroad, which the Russians tell me is their goal.

Young Polish officers with tears in their eyes told me it is impossible to fight Budenny's cavalry with its astounding habit of infiltration, suddenly appearing behind a Polish battery or company. That has been the characteristic feature of the whole campaign. The Poles without cavalry clog the roads, of which there are few here. The Polish columns lose contact with each other. Russian horsemen smuggle themselves across a wheat field, appearing in the rear.

That is what happened when the Poles tried to resist on the Novodon-Kuznets line. Budenny's men ride forty-five to fifty miles daily, frequently returning to the point of departure with tales of high adventure, much booty and more prisoners.

Poles Short of Shells.
I was with a battery in the Polish retreat from the Ossowetz-Bialystok line. On the edge of the Narw marshes the battery began firing at a distance of 1,200 yards. Two shots and the bolshevik cavalry patrol disappeared into the woods.

"We are short of ammunition," the lieutenant told me. "I have got 200 shells for four guns. Two guns are French and two are Austrian 88s, so it is hard to keep the ammunition separate. Then I have a batch of grenades which are useless against cavalry."

Russian Leg Out of Bounds.
The campaign is not without humor. One of the funniest things in my life was seeing a Russian officer astride the frontier wall near Grajevo. It is a small stone wall astride which he sprang from his horse and looked into Germany. German guards arrived.

"How about trading rubles for German ham?" said the officer. But the German guards, with rifles over their shoulders, pointed angrily at the officer's right leg, which was swinging over sacred German soil.

"Take that leg back into Poland, then we'll trade with you," said the German guards.

The Russian swung his leg back. "You certainly are not a socialist bunch here," the Russian laughed, but, when the breach of neutrality was needed, they messaged together over the wall.

It is also laughable to see the mounted and Cossacks riding in coaches and private wagons with the Poles driving. One of the first things the bolsheviks regulation is a vehicle, promising the frightened drivers they will release them when the next big town is captured.

At Her First American Picnic

Lois Klein (left) presenting flowers to Mlle. Zella Barthelemy, daughter of French consul to Chicago, at Forest Park outing.

Le Club des Alsaciens-Lorrains de Chicago held a picnic yesterday at Ackermann's grove, in Forest Park. The affair was attended by M. Barthelemy, French consul in Chicago, his wife, Antoinette, and daughter, Zella. It was Mme. Barthelemy and her daughter's first American picnic, they having arrived in America for the first time last week.

During the afternoon there were speeches by several prominent members of the club and the consul. There were races between the children and games in which the "grown-ups" took part. Eugene Baumgartner is president of the club.

WILSON AWAITS WARSAW'S NOTE ASKING FOR AID

Washington, D. C., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—The note dispatched by Poland to the United States, supposedly to enlist the sympathy and aid of this country in the war with soviet Russia, had not reached Washington tonight, according to the state department.

Until the note arrives President Wilson will make no definite decision as to the course of the administration in dealing with the Polish crisis. In his answer to the note, however, the president is expected to set forth for the benefit of the American people as well as Europe his views on the settlement of the differences between Poland and Russia.

Much interest here attaches to the note also reported to have been addressed by Poland to the league of nations. If in this note Poland should invoke the offices of the league to stop the war the league would be brought face to face with the issue it steadfastly has ignored, and the world might at last be furnished with the object lesson in the operation of the covenant for which it has been waiting.

Why the league, which is now fully constituted, with the exception of the participation of the United States, and in operation, has steadily refused to take cognizance of either the Russo-Polish or any of the other wars now raging in Europe and Asia never has been satisfactorily explained.

Camp Roosevelt Boys Take Up 2 New Studies

Muskegon, Mich., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—Astronomy and botany are two studies added at Camp Roosevelt and credits are to be awarded in both. About 200 cadets are enrolled in the classes which start Monday. Company B, has been placed on the merit system by Lieut. Smith. Those having poor marks are deprived of their weekly holidays. The merit system is bringing excellent results.

JAPAN IN REPLY EXPLAINS TROOPS IN SAGHALIN ISLE

TOKIO, Aug. 7.—[By the Associated Press.]—Japan's answer to the note of the United States relative to occupation by the Japanese of the northern half of Saghalin island is to be forwarded soon to Washington. It is understood to repeat, with amplifications, Japan's position regarding the occupation.

The Jiji Shimpo and the Asahi Shimbun, usually well informed, publish summaries of the reply, indicating that Japan considers occupation of the Saghalin region is necessary to maintain its national prestige. Occupation, the note says, will be temporary, the troops to be withdrawn whenever a responsible Russian government is established and the Nikolaevsk affair satisfactorily settled. The reply as outlined in the newspapers points out that as it is impossible to maintain troops at Nikolaevsk during the winter they will be withdrawn to Alexandrovsk, where it is considered necessary to have a garrison.

Continuing the reply, as summarized by the newspapers, explains that the object in maintaining troops in the Vladivostok region is the protection of 7,000 Japanese subjects, as the bolshevik menace has not been removed, and that occupation of Khabarovsk is obligatory because it is a strategic point on the route to Nikolaevsk.

The newspapers report further, that, as a result of receipt by Japan of a note from Great Britain concerning the United States' inquiry on occupation, Japan has decided to furnish the British government with a copy of the reply it will send to the United States.

Gen. Sojtro Kojima, who has been selected to organize and command the army garrison for north Saghalin, left last night to take up his post.

SINN FEIN CROWD AWAITS MANNIX AT LIVERPOOL

But Police Say He Cannot Land There.

BULLETIN.

FISHGUARD, Wales, Aug. 8.—(By the Associated Press.)—The harbor master of Fishguard and stations up and down the coast today received instructions to "stand by to take a passenger off the Baltic."

BY JOHN BUTLER.
(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
(By Special Cable.)

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 8.—The Sinn Feiners here have completed plans for running the British blockade from England to Ireland with Archbishop Mannix, if he wants to go, a Sinn Fein leader has told me.

"We will get the archbishop to Ireland soon after he lands in England, if he desires to go, despite the cordon of English destroyers now flung around our coast to prevent this. We have strong reason to believe, however, he will show his contempt for England by refusing to get off the ship and will return to New York without setting foot on English soil."

Sinn Fein Flags.
Liverpool is ablaze with Sinn Fein flags and banners, and the whole city is tense with excitement on the eve of the arrival of the Baltic. A number of minor street fights between Sinn Feiners and the English were reported tonight, forecasting serious clashes to-

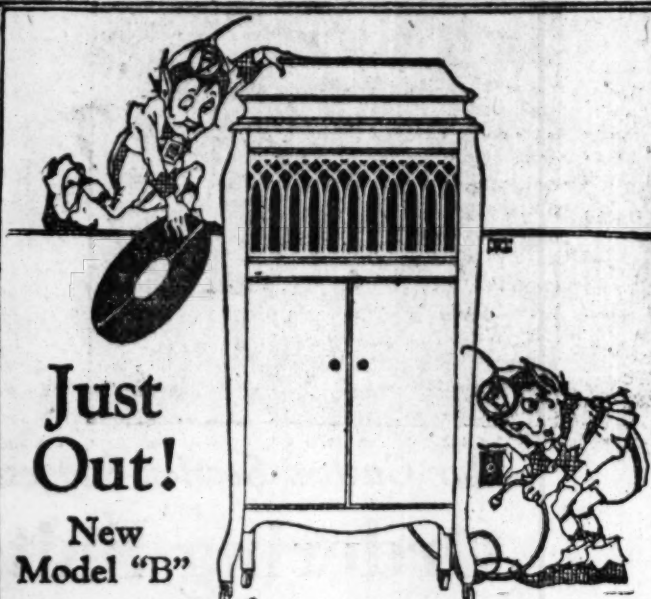

AMERICAN LEGION NOTES

Ten-thousand post No. 543 of the American Legion will meet in room 1125 County building, Washington, and Clark street, this evening at 8 o'clock to elect delegates for the state convention and the filling out of applications for victory medals.

The regular meeting of the James G. Brophy post, No. 195, will be held at the Stayms' clubhouse, 36 North La Salle avenue, tomorrow evening. Delegates to the state convention will be elected.

Tomorrow, if Archbishop Mannix lands here, Mystery, cloaked in the strictest official secrecy, surrounds the movements of the Baltic. It is uncertain whether or not it will dock here. A sign at the White Star line offices reads:

"The steamship Baltic expects to dock to unload passengers and mail in Liverpool between 5 and 6 o'clock Monday night."
The word "expects" has been substituted for the customary "will." Scores of Sinn Feiners from Ireland, including the speaker of Dail Eireann, the lord mayor of Dublin, and 100 priests, arrived today to join the 20,000 Sinn Feiners here to welcome the Australian archbishop. I understand the destroyers had not removed the archbishop from the Baltic up to tonight.
Police Bar Liverpool.
LIVERPOOL, Aug. 8.—(By the Associated Press.)—Announcement was made by the police today that Archbishop Mannix of Australia would not be disembarked here from the steamer Baltic.

APPEALS COURT ASKED TO GUARD POSTAL WORKERS

'Sacrifice' of Union Heads
Is Protested.

Establishment of a civil service court of appeals and the abolishment of the present "arbitrary" method of disposing of charges against employees was advocated in a resolution passed by a mass meeting of postal employees at the Princess theater yesterday afternoon. About 450 of the employees attended. At the same time a resolution protesting against "the threatened and arbitrary action of the appeals court, who are accused of taking part in an appeal to public opinion," was adopted.

Money from Picnic.

"For the last two years we have been obtaining our money for advertising purposes from our annual picnics," Mr. Starr declared. "None of the members of the union ever collected these funds. We, the publicity men who do not work for the government, go to the merchants of the city and ask them to take advertising space on our picnic program. No coercion is used, either. By this means we raised several thousand dollars which was used for the ads which have resulted in the officers of the union being unjustly accused of soliciting the funds."

Pierce E. Butler, president of the national organization, Luther C. Stewart, president of the National Federation of Federal Employees, and Michael Igo, former assistant United States district attorney, also addressed the meeting, each denying that any member of the union had any part in soliciting the funds for ads.

LEGION PROTEST TAKES SHERMAN OFF PICNIC BILL

Lanark, Ill., Aug. 8.—Senator Lawrence T. Sherman, who was to have been the principal speaker at the Old Settlers' picnic here Aug. 16, will not appear. He was notified yesterday that his name had been withdrawn from the program by managers of the picnic because of objections raised by the American Legion.

When it was learned that Senator Sherman was to speak the six posts of the American Legion in Carroll county held a joint meeting. It is reported, and decided to object to his appearance. A set of resolutions was adopted and presented to managers of the picnic.

In the resolutions the legion members protested against the appearance of Senator Sherman because of his opposition to the soldiers and sailors' bonus bill, and the managers, complying with the protest, decided to remove the senator's name from the program.

Buy your clothes right where they're made

Save Retailer's and Wholesaler's profits

It costs about $100,000 a year to maintain and advertise a modern ground-floor retail store in a prominent loop location.

Now suppose that store sells 10,000 suits a year—a pretty fair volume. In that case, the merchant must ask $10 a suit to cover his retail overhead.

Then he must have a profit for himself and a profit for his wholesaler.

All in all, you're paying a tribute of about $15 to $25 for retail and wholesale salesmanship, for the clothes you buy in the usual retail way.

Isn't it worth a three-block walk to this wholesale plant—to save this double profit? Buy your clothes at the source—right where they're made—and pay the manufacturer's price.

Furs at Mandel Brothers

"Quality" brings August sale success

During thirty-six years this store's consistent ideal of superior quality in furs and in workmanship has constantly added to the numbers of a clientele both fashionable and discriminating. Quality was announced as the dominating note of this thirty-seventh annual sale, and all last week quality justified itself as the principal consideration guiding discerning shoppers.

August sale prices—lower than later emphasize the quality-appeal of the furs, and your advantage in choosing now. So large was the original collection of furs that the breadth of your choice will be practically as unrestricted this week as last—yet it were wise to choose now, lest "the" fur, "the" value you might prefer, be taken ere you could express your desire for it.

"Quality" in the furs

Through our having secured the peltries months ago, when the wholesale market was at its best in breadth of collections and superiority of skins, "quality" in the furs themselves—that prime essential—is assured you.

"Quality" workmanship

results logically from our forehandedness in securing the pelts—for this gave our furriers the time essential to the perfect matching and careful sewing of the skins, and to conform the fur garments exactly to the new models.

"Quality" in designing expresses itself in style authenticity and in regal distinction. Mandel fur models are authoritative—you incur no risk of style-changes by selecting your furs here and now. And Mandel fur models are of superlative elegance and beauty.

Furs stored gratis till November if selected in the August sale. To patrons with charge account this privilege is extended without reservation. Patrons without charge account, by making a cash deposit, may reserve their fur selections for November first delivery—storage free.

Furs imported from Paris famed modistes add to the prestige of this, Chicago's premier fur event. Drecoll, Callot Secours, Madame Jenny, Madeleine and Madeleine, Grunwaldt, Maurice Meyer, Paquin, Doucet, Martial Armand, Cheruit, Premet, Fourrier Max and Redfern—all were visited by our personal envoy.

The furs selected in Paris comprise "Badrigal," in hudson seal, by Madame Agnes and Madame Havet.

"Creme," in mole, by Brandt. "Bysance," in mole, by Beer.
"Pistole," in mole, by Worth. "Taupline," in mole, by Georgette.
"Desir" and "Diabolo," in mole, by Felix Yungman.
"Danube," in mole and skunk, by Felix Yungman.

The superb models sketched are typical of the elegance—the warmth—the vogue—the quality of all the furs in our August collection.

Fur shop, fifth floor.

A—Finest quality broadtail coat

A decided novelty—waist line effect in front, but with 32-inch back; the sleeves are wrap-like; the large collar and deep cuffs of Hudson Bay sable. This season's creation—and gorgeously lined. $2000.

B—Very select hudson seal wrap with sleeves, "unusual" large cape collar and three-tier skirt. The lining is of silk crepe, with metal brocade border. $1500.

C—Select quality hudson seal coat

36 inches long, with semi-fitting back, two ruffles on the side, double cuff, 16-inch shawl collar and double fur girdle. Beautifully lined. $1000.

D—Mole and Siberian squirrel

Choice quality mole wrap, with newest standing collar and deep yoke of dark natural Siberian squirrel—the squirrel also worked into the sleeve effect. An extreme model—remarkably effective. $1150.

E—Mole and Siberian squirrel

Scotch mole coat with large collar of dark natural Siberian squirrel—the back in blouse effect, the front in cape effect; with taupe embroidered lining to match mole. One of the season's novelties. $1350.

G—Hudson Bay sable wrap—32-in.

Made from choice, large, perfectly matched skins—each skin finished with its natural tail and claws; styled with large collar and sleeves. This garment is not lined, but will be lined to suit its purchaser's preference. $3500.

F—Hudson seal—kolinsky squirrel and border of Hudson seal; also a squirrel border worked across waist line and running into the sleeves. Handsomely lined. In the August sale at $1500.

H—Hudson seal—kolinsky squirrel

The double collar, 20-inch border and 16-inch cuffs are of kolinsky squirrel, and the Hudson seal panel effect in the front adds a distinctive touch. This luxurious wrap is exquisitely lined. $1350.

The marvel of our fur windows is appreciated by thousands every day. The State street corner windows are devoted to furs de luxe—and between the mannequins are draped exquisite imported French linings of brocaded silks.

The furs here illustrated are typical of the elegance and worth of our whole superb collection—and all are lower priced now than they will be next fall.

"DIVORCE SPELLS CITY OF WRECKED HOMES BY 1950"

"Home, Sweet Home," was the topic of the outdoor "gasoline services" held last night by the Third Presbyterian church, Ogden avenue and Ashland boulevard.

"If the present rate of increase of divorces continues in Chicago for the next generation the city will by 1950 be more desolate than any of the war ravaged cities in France," said William F. McDermott, one of the speakers.

"If the present rate continues there will not be a 100 per cent marriage by 1950 that will turn out successfully."

Divorce for Every Six Weddings.

"Take the figures of the last ten years, for instance, as far as they are available. In 1911 there were 30,417 marriages and 3,442 divorces, or one out of each 8.83 marriages failed; in 1915 there were 31,569 marriages and 4,115 divorces, or one divorce to every 7.65 marriages. The increase of divorce over marriage in that period was 13.3 per cent."

"The years following, being war years, cannot be taken as normal. But last year, the first full year of peace, there were 27,533 marriages, while the local judges handling divorce cases estimated there would be between 5,000 and 6,000 divorces. Taking the mean of these two figures, or 5,500, it would show one divorce for every 6.83 marriages, or an increase of approximately 23 per cent over the divorce rate for 1911. Three decades more, at that rate, will see divorces equaling the number of marriages."

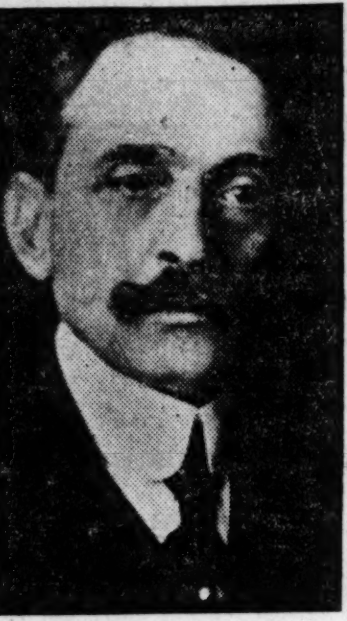

Stricter Laws Won't Help.

"What is the cure? Stricter divorce laws will help but little, as divorce is only a symptom of a disease in the social fabric of the nation. Applying strict divorce laws is like putting a court plaster on a cancer. Treatment must go deeper."

"A study of the causes and circumstances reveal the need. Take the figures for 1914, a normal peace year. Out of 3,577 families getting divorces, only seventy owned their homes; in 2,171 cases, or nearly two-thirds, there were no children.

"Increasing childlessness, especially among our native born American people; the growth of the apartment habit, and the tendency toward ease, indulgence, and fast living, only presage more divorces, more broken homes, and greater menace to the future of America."

The service was attended by a number of motor parties, who remained seated in their cars, which were parked on three sides of a hollow square in Arcade court, just off Ashland boulevard.

YOUTH RESTORER WITH APE GLANDS TO BE HERE TODAY

Prof. Serge Voronoff, the French surgeon who made the first successful transplantation of interstitial glands from an anthropoid ape to the body of a man, will arrive in Chicago on the Twentieth Century Limited this afternoon. At 3:30 o'clock this afternoon Dr. Voronoff will hold a clinic at the American hospital and there demonstrate to Chicago surgeons how the gland operation can be made.

It is claimed that the operation makes the old young again. "A man is worth as much as his interstitial glands," is the expression of Dr. Voronoff. His discoveries have made the fabled "fountain of youth" sought by Ponce de Leon more than a dream, according to foreign observers. Already several elderly men have had their youthful vigor restored.

First Interviews Here. Despite the fact that Dr. Voronoff has to date steadfastly refused to be interviewed by American newspaper men, he will make statements to reporters for Chicago papers this morning.

A few months ago in Paris Dr. Voronoff made the following statement regarding the operation: "A local anesthetic is all that is necessary. It is merely a task of opening the skin, inserting the new tissue, sewing up the slight wound, and then nature does the rest."

"Several months ago I operated on a well known Parisian man of affairs, who at the age of 65 was in a decrepit state. The experiment was a complete success. Though his hair remains white and his face is wrinkled, he walks erect, his mind is agile and his appetite is as good as that of a young man."

Secret of His Method.

"The secret of my method is based on the following general knowledge: In various parts of the body nature has provided glands which secrete fluids having vital functions in human organism. For instance, if I remove the thyroid gland from a man's neck, he will become an idiot within six months. Also when the interstitial glands, which manufacture fluid which is absorbed by the blood, and thus gives to the whole body its vitality, become worn out or are removed, the whole body falls into decay. "I do not guarantee I have found the solution for senile decay. My works are of an experimental nature, and I am continuing my investigations." The clinic this afternoon will be Dr. Voronoff's first public appearance in America. He arrived in New York a week ago. He has held no clinics.

HIGH PRICE ERA TO REMAIN, SAYS BANK'S REVIEW

Continental and Commercial Optimistic.

The American business world has confidence in the country and in itself. It is not depressed by conditions and it is optimistic as to the future.

This is the conclusion reached in the annual review of business conditions by the Continental and Commercial National bank of Chicago. The report is compiled from information gathered through the bank's several thousand correspondents.

"In reports received there is a clear feeling of confidence and optimism," the review says. "The information has been gathered from business concerns all over the country. A great majority say orders for goods are large and prices are good except in a few lines, notably textiles. A strong demand for all sorts of commodities is thus definitely assured. The supply side of the picture is more favorable than might be supposed with the railroad congestion definitely and decidedly affecting all business activity adversely."

Prices May Drop Slightly.
"Despite discussions about prices and predictions that the country is working toward much lower price levels, there is little to confirm an early realization of this view. Prices may soften a little here and there, but there is nothing in the reported underlying conditions which affect prices to indicate anything like a marked recession."

"Neither the supply of materials nor the wages paid labor, neither the accumulation of merchandise nor the correction of transportation difficulties indicates changes which will cause a lowering of the price level."

"There is a general disposition to measure prices by the standards that obtained before the war. The last normal year was 1913. In the opinions expressed as to price trends it is often remarked that there must be a departure from the 1913 standard."

"The consumer must begin to think in terms of a new and higher price level. The conclusion that the general price level will be high as compared with 1913 is held despite recent declines in particular products, like clothing, dry goods, flour, grain, and leather."

"The downward trend in weakening commodities is to be taken only as an item in the process of readjustment which may bring prices considerably below present or recent standards and still leave them high in relation to the 1913 standard."

No Fear of a Crisis.
"As to economy and the general disposition of the people to recant the riot of extravagance, opinion is almost exactly divided; half said the people were disposed to economize and half saw no signs of any such thing."

"Fear of anything that could be called a panic or a crisis was nowhere manifested. If there were a precipitate decline in the general price level, the country would be confronted by a cumulative crop of business failures. No such decline is expected. The cry that business houses are loaded with goods which will have to be disposed of at any price, because of the tight credit situation, is not in accord with the reports."

"Reports from bankers are without variation that credit will continue to be tight and interest rates high. But it will not be necessary to have funds in unusual amounts for crop moving."

"The coal problem is a very real one. Most consumers have enough to prevent suspension of operations, but have no surplus. The question of coal supply will probably be of all but vital importance for many months. If there are no further troubles with labor, the situation will clear only as the transportation problem clears. The labor condition is easier. The improvement is more as to quantity than as to quality."

LIBERTY BONDS BACK TO PAR, IS HARDING'S PLAN

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5.—[Special.]

Quoting Senator Harding's assertion that "this government should make its Liberty and Victory bonds worth all that its patriotic citizens paid in purchasing them," the Republican Publicity association proposes conversion of the securities into serial bonds as a means of bringing them back to par.

"There are probably 15,000,000 bondholders in the country today, and to them Senator Harding's statement brings encouragement that their securities will be enhanced in value about $1,500,000,000, restoring the loss sustained through depreciation," says the association.

"The candidate implies that if he is elected he will do his utmost to restore the par of the war obligations of the government."

"By the refunding of all the Liberty issues into a single serial bond issue bearing interest at the rate of 5 1/2 per cent the market price would probably go immediately to par, the interest return to bondholders would be increased by from 19 to 33 per cent, the entire amount of the bonds would be retired by June 16, 1947, the latest date of any Liberty issue, and the whole transaction would cost the government no more than an adherence to the present sinking fund method."

18,000 HEAR BAND AT BEACH.
The Chicago band played to an audience of about 18,000 at O'Hare beach yesterday afternoon. G. E. Custer, manager of the beach, said it was one of the finest August Sundays the beach "fans" have enjoyed in many years.

U. OF C. STUDENT CAVE MAN, SAYS HIS GIRL CAPTOR

J. F. Pick, 20 years old, 2517 South Central Park avenue, was arrested last night upon complaint of Miss Margaret McInerney, 12 years old, 561 East North street. The young man, who says he is a student in the University of Chicago school of medicine, is charged with being too cavemanship in his love making.

The arrest occurred near the Cottage Grove avenue station of the Kenwood elevated, where Pick is said to have met Miss McInerney, a student at St. Xavier's academy.

Meets Him on Street Car.
"I met the man a week ago on a street car," she told the police. "He seemed extremely polite, and I gave him my telephone number. Later that evening he indicated that he was a cave man."

And He Tries to Kiss Her!
"I met him and for a few minutes he seemed very kind. Then he commenced the cave man methods and attempted to kiss me. I called the policeman, whom I had stationed around the corner, and had him arrested."

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—The greatest fleet of wooden ships in the world is being mobilized in the James river by the United States shipping board. There are about one hundred there now and there will be 170 eventually. The ships, which represent the nation's ill-starred adventure in wooden shipbuilding, are being gathered from all parts of the country, not for service, but for conservation until they can be sold to any interests, American or foreign, that find a use for them. The government constructed 266 or more wooden ships during the war.

The Deep-toned Colors of Fall Are in The New Plaid Wool Fabrics

Some there are from foreign looms, others from the weavers of our own country. But in all there is a blending of colors and a combination of unusual tones that make of the plaid wool fabric so well-known a new material indeed.

Prices Range From $7 to $10 the Yard

There are worsted plaids and velour plaids in browns from russet to tabac, blues exquisitely blended, greens deep and rich. In widths, these vary from 50 to 56 inches.

Second Floor, North.

Silks and Velvets For Autumn 1920

In their soft and supple weaves, one reads the way of the new silhouette.

Their exquisite color tones tell just as surely that the new fall season not far off promises much that is brilliant.

There Are Crepe Meteors in Many Colors, $4.50 Yard

This lovely fabric may be had in black, as well as in lovely colors, in the 40-inch width.

Satin charmeuse of a rich all-silk quality in evening and street shades and black. 40 inches wide. Priced at $5.50 yard.

Plaid satins, the rich dark color tones in a soft and lustrous silk. 36 inches wide. $3.50 yard.

The Individual Is Easily Attained With These Fall Hats Ready to Trim

One reads in fall fashion notes that such hats as these are in styles already assured of success.

In their rich autumn tones, they strike a colorful note which makes for certain smartness this season. The fabrics in which these hats are developed are really beautiful. There are, among others,

Silk Duvetyn, Satin Soleil and Velvet Hats Interestingly Priced From $8.75 to $13

And so effectively are these materials combined that very little trimming is required—a single ornament—perhaps one of the new feather fancies deftly placed. Each hat is of remarkably fine fabric quality and of excellent workmanship.

Fifth Floor, South.

Pure Silk Sweater Coats, $15.75

Values Not Noted Before This Season

This is an opportunity women will be quick to appreciate. As remarkable in quality as in pricing, are these pure silk sweater coats.

These are the sort of sweater coats so desired for year-round smartness and service. To find them so moderately priced is unusual, indeed.

They are in Tuxedo Style—and Sleeveless In Bright Lovely Colorings

It is the rich quality of silk which intensifies the beauty of these shades of amber, turquoise, shell pink, lilac, wistaria and flame-color. These sweater coats fit in the satisfactory way of sweater coats here. They are charming in detail at pocket, collar-line and sash.

Sleeveless Silk Sweater Coats in Slip-on and Coat Styles, a Limited Quantity, Reduced to $3.95 and $7.95.

Madras curtains in cream color with floral and geometrical designs are featured at $3.95 pair.

Fourth Floor, North.

Unusual Values Mark The August Sale of Furs

EVERY point upon which one judges furs proves the advantages of this August Sale—quite apart from the very substantial savings.

The richness and beauty of the pelts, the fine workmanship which makes the furrier's skill an art, are noted in each garment. A wide choice of all that is best in this season's fur fashions is offered, all at August Sale pricing. Certain groups indicative of the values are especially mentioned.

Coats of Hudson Seal (Dyed Muskrat), Richly Trimmed With Natural Skunk, $425

This is a notable value. The skins are selected with unusual care and skillfully matched. In style this coat follows one of this season's most favored modes. It is beautifully lined. In the 36-inch length. In the sketch.

Dolmans of Hudson Seal (Dyed Muskrat), With Deep Shawl Collars of Natural Skunk, $750

This fur Dolman attests the art of the furrier in every line and detail. The superior quality of furs gives the most forceful emphasis to the pricing. The lining is beautiful in itself. Altogether a most unusual value.

Other Dolmans All of Hudson Seal (Dyed Muskrat), Or Combined With Other Fur, Priced at $850 to $1,200

Many other modes, too, in fur coats for street wear, and all the handsome new separate pieces of rarely beautiful pelts are presented at August Sale prices.

Fourth Floor, North.

Plaid Wool Skirts for Fall Declare Their Allegiance to Pleats

That is a fashion fact already firmly established.

And one need only see the new skirts arriving here daily to realize in how many ways pleats may be varied, yet always adhere to the "straight and narrow" in line. Here are, for example—

Plaid Skirts, Pleated in Panels, Buttoned and Buckled, $27.50

This is the serge skirt sketched at the left. There is a clever pretense of pockets made by little folds and buttons. The plaid is tan, blue and gold—a combination particularly smart.

Plaid Skirts, Box-pleated All Around, $32.50

And uncommonly well tailored, with an unusual finish of points done in worsteds. This is a skirt certain, we believe, to appeal to the woman who is critical of tailoring. Of fine serges, in blue and tan plaids. Sketched at the right.

Fourth Floor, East.

In the August Sale Are These Plaid All-Wool Blankets, $19.50 Pair

Assortments here present excellent varieties. So choice now during the August Sale will be especially worth-while, for price advantages make possible very definite savings.

These plaid all-wool blankets are in block patterns in blue, pink, rose, gray and tan. All are well bound. In the 72 x 84-inch size they are featured at $19.50 pair.

Wool-mixed Plaid Blankets, Priced $9.95 Pair

They are of very good quality wool-and-cotton mixed, to be had in attractive plaid patterns in blue, pink, gray and tan. In the 72 x 84-inch size. These are excellent values at $9.95 pair.

Wool-mixed Plaid Blankets, Priced $7.95 Pair

They are of serviceable heavy weight. To be had in two or three color combinations—pink, blue, gray, tan, yellow and lavender. In the five-pound weight. In the 70 x 80-inch size, $7.95 pair.

All-Wool Blankets Priced $15.75 Pair

These are in checked patterns and broken plaid designs. In blue, pink, tan, gray, heliotrope and yellow with self-colored soisette binding. In the 4½-pound weight, 70 x 80-inch size, $15.75 pair.

All-wool Blankets of Exceptionally Fine Quality, White With Borders in Old Rose or Old Blue, All Finished With 3-Inch Taffeta Silk Binding, Size 72 x 84 Inches, Priced $26 Pair.

Seventh Floor, South.

Early Autumn Fashions Forecast the New in Line and Color

Every day sees a phase of the new mode introduced in charming version here. One cannot fail to be impressed with the advisability of early selection in viewing these skillfully selected assortments. Their fashion message is important.

Suits Are Lavish With Fur and Embroidery Fabrics Are Luxurious in Weave

Deep, soft collars that drape about the shoulders, wide bandings on coats slightly longer than last year, very rich in effect on the soft plaid fabrics. Even the tricot suits are trimmed with fur.

Sports suits of cashmyrne plaids have collars of raccoon. Sometimes the coat is of velvet and the skirt of cloth. Crayon striped velours are lovely with mole or beaver.

The suit sketched at the right is of brown duvetyn, embroidered by hand. The collar is kolinsky-dyed squirrel, $375. Other suits from $95 to $375.

Cloth Frocks Take Slender Panels As a Way to Certain Smartness

Sometimes they fall gracefully over a narrow satin underskirt or the underskirt may be accordion pleated. Beaded motifs are wrought with wizardry of color and design. A novel and charming metallic effect is achieved by cire ribbon.

The frock sketched at the left is of navy blue Poiret twill—embroidered in henna or navy blue on a black satin underskirt. Priced at $75. Others at $85 to $200.

The First Fall Fashions for Youth

Here is all that is best in the new for the youthful wardrobe. The young woman assembling her school or college outfit may make selections here with confidence in their long-continued vogue.

Misses' Suits From $85 to $275

There is a jaunty swing to the new box coats, irresistibly smart and youthful. Suits with longer coats take straight girlish lines or flare smartly. Embroidery and fur naively follows modes more mature with charming effect.

Fourth Floor.

Misses' Frocks From $85 to $150

Accordion pleatings, of silk or wool, metal threading, rows of braiding, sashes weighted with heavy tassels, and many panels. These charming features of the new mode the young woman of 1920 may call her own.

THERE'S NO EVEN ON SUN FOR SLOGAN

Poor Editor Is Sw with Harding-Cox

Yesterday was no day of the editor. While the world was taking life as it came, the editor was writing war cries and leading presidential candidates who scan the mass of the daily into The Tribune, having his hands full.

Now, let's see. Here's J. H. Loshair, editor of the Tribune, in hand to sketch a picture of a rooster because he once down on South Wabash.

Mr. Barclay's rooster—printed the legend: "Cock-a-doodle-do," flows between his teeth. "Peace, property."

"I'm a booster. Cock-a-doodle-do!" As usual, however, the editor's mind is on the war. He is up to the eyes in the crisis. One of them was a little of Sioux Falls, S. D. added that he had lived in administration from Jackson, Minn. for every Republican from Fremont until now.

"Cox blocks progress. Harding blocks Cox. Here are some more samples: 'No overlord, no auto. No Tammany, no no Dew. —L. S. Widney, Spring City.'"

"Babe Ruth Harding. 'Harding: the invincible. Ruth of the nation.'—Lou Bloomington, Ill.

Henry, way of more, Md.

PEDESTRIAN BY AUTO TR DIES OF INJ

Louis Pollock, 40 years old, South Halsted street, died of injuries suffered Saturday when struck by an automobile at 634 Root street. Thomas J. Ellis, driver of the police car, was held by the police.

James J. Zipp, 13 years old, St. Louis avenue, was seriously injured when struck by a car as he attempted to cross the street near Wilson. Byrd Lester, A. Garuchala, 424 avenue, who drove the motor car, was not to blame.

Members of his family yesterday held a funeral for the boy at 3219 South Canal street, who was the Passavant hospital patient suffering from injuries received by an automobile driver.

A man thought by the police to be Charles Spore was probably injured last night, when a cab driven by him struck a woman on the sidewalk at 3219 South Canal street, who was the Passavant hospital patient suffering from injuries received by an automobile driver.

WHERE'S NO REST EVEN ON SUNDAY, FOR SLOGAN MAN

Poor Editor Is Swamped
With Harding-Cox Cries.

Yesterday was no day of rest for the editor of the Tribune. While the remainder of the world was taking life easy and the tired, writing war cries for the two presidential candidates, the editor of the Tribune was having his hands full. Slogans to him, slogans to left of him, etc.

Now, let's see. Here's J. J. Barclay of 1313 Loshair avenue. He has taken it upon him to write a roster. We know it is a roster because we saw it come down on South Water street.

Crows for Jimmy.

Barclay's roster—at whose feet he printed the legend: "Crows for Jimmy"—seems to be speaking.

"Cock-a-doodle-do," flows out from between his teeth. "Peace, protection, prosperity."

E. J. Tribble of Fort Atkinson, Wis., also brought the hen's husband in his slogan, viz:

"I'm a booster
For the rooster.
Cock-a-doodle-do!"

As usual, however, the Harding-Cox cries were up most of the postage. One of them was from P. M. Miller of Sioux Falls, S. D., and he said that he had lived under every administration from Jackson down, had voted for every Republican candidate from Fremont until now, and has a hunch that his vote for the elephant's standard bearer will win. He wrote:

"Cox blocks progress;
Harding blocks Cox."

No Tammany, no Democrat."
—L. S. Widney, Springfield, Tenn.

"Babe Ruth Harding."

"Harding, the invincible, the Babe Ruth of the nation"—Louise Hobbs, Birmingham, Ill.

"The Red, White and Blue and Harding, too!"—James O'Connell, Grand Haven, Mich.

"Harding is now starting;
Let's have peace. Vote for Harding."
—Mrs. F. E. Thornton Jr., 121 South Albany avenue.

"Harding—a dollar's worth for a dollar!"—K. E. Lela, Rock Island, Ill.

"Beat Wilsonism, waste and woe."
—Mrs. H. H. Henry, way off in Baltimore, Md.

PEDESTRIAN HIT BY AUTO TRUCK DIES OF INJURIES

Louis Pollock, 40 years old, 1259 South Halsted street, died in the Genoa Deaconess hospital yesterday of injuries sustained Saturday when he was struck by an automobile truck at 31st street. Thomas Casey, 3802 West Belmont, driver of the truck, is held by the police.

Louis Pollock, 13 years old, 4654 North La Salle avenue, was seriously injured yesterday when struck by an automobile truck at 31st street. He was taken to the Genoa Deaconess hospital Saturday night suffering from injuries received when struck by an automobile driven by Albert Bell, 2912 Rice street.

A man thought by the police to be Charles Spore was probably fatally injured last night when struck by a yellow cab driven by Bert Levine, 1259 South Clifton street, at Michigan avenue and Congress street. According to witnesses Spore was looking backward instead of in front of the car. James E. Jones, colored, of 4812 Indiana avenue was killed last night when an automobile being driven by Mrs. Helen Grimes, wife of a salesman for the Overland Motor company, hit him at 24th and 31st streets and Indiana avenue. Mrs. Grimes was booked for assault.

"WEDDING BELLS" AT THE CORT

MISS MARGARET LAWRENCE,
in "Wedding Bells."
(Campbell Photo.)

BY SHEPPARD BUTLER.

The first act of the Cort's new play is capital. You will go far to find forty minutes of better comedy, better acted, than is set forth in this prelude to the comic catastrophes fabricated by Mr. Salisbury Field in "Wedding Bells." The action is spirited, the dialogue frothy and pungent, and the company of players as nearly perfect as one can reasonably ask. From rise to fall of curtain it is one continuous chuckle. Thereafter, in spots, the play drags. It has its moments, but the swift movement of the gay adventure is not maintained. Perhaps this was more apparent than real last night, the evening being too hot for playgoing, or perhaps the first act set too fast a pace. In any case, we were permitted to realize that, were it not for the actors' unerring skill, "Wedding Bells" would be a tenuous trifle indeed.

The tale involves Wallace Eddinger in the dilemma of finding himself, on the eve of his marriage, in love with his wife. The object of his adorations, it may be explained, had left him a year before because, after a brief honeymoon, she had died like it. He followed divorce and forgetfulness—forgetfulness even to tell his fiancée about the little matter of his having been married before.

Then the inevitable happens, and on the eve of the wedding the lady of the old romance turns up in the resplendent person of Miss Margaret Lawrence, exuberant and irresistible.

"What would you have done?" Well, Eddinger does the same. There are complications and adjustments, some of them preposterous and broadly farcical, but they find Eddinger at his best in his droll delineation of comic despair and give Miss Lawrence free rein for the rollicking gift of breezy comedy that you remember, perhaps, in "Tea for Three."

The latter's appearance, be it understood, is no coincidence. She has read of the approaching nuptials in Paris and taken the first boat to head them off. Throughout the play she carries things with a high hand, proving herself a jaunty exemplar of Mr. Shaw's thesis in "Man and Superman."

The ramifications of the plot need not be related, though they involve a group of minor roles that gain importance from being, in each instance, so skillfully acted. John Harwood, for example, gets a world of fun out of the equally ungrateful task of playing an English man servant. Percy Ames is a delight as a quizzical bachelor observer of the riotous proceedings, and the troubled fiancée and her even more perturbed mother are charmingly portrayed by Miss Jessie Glendinning and Mrs. Jacques Martin.

"Wedding Bells" may or may not be much of a play, but if you enjoy good acting, seek it at the Cort.

Fathers: Get Kids to Beg
You to Go to the Circus

"Forced to leave Europe because of the temporary precaution of the people of that part of the world with more serious matters, some of the greatest circus acts will come to Chicago next Thursday with the combined Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey circuses," writes the merry representative of the two shows.

There are 700 horses, herds of elephants, Roman chariots, ducks of glows, and a steam callopie. Note to fathers: Tell the kids. They will surely ask you to take 'em!

WILMETTE HAS A MYSTERY; 'THE KISS IN THE DARK'

William L. Klewer's Mother
Is Also Mystified.

Only the blasé man in the moon saw the beginning of the soul kiss, but Policeman Henry Brautigan, Wilmette's custodian of the nocturnal woe, was there at the finish. He called time. The But the impatient reader must assimilate one antecedent fact. In the secretary of state's registry of automobile licenses one registration reads: 332905, Illinois, 1920. Arthur L. Klewer, 1314 Leland avenue, Chicago, Auburn car.

In the city directory Mr. Klewer is listed as a member of the firm of William L. Klewer & Son, architects. Arthur L. Klewer and his son, William L. Klewer Jr., now live at 4507 Dover street, with the senior William L. Klewer.

Runs Afoul a Dark Object. The Wilmette policeman, who rides a bicycle, was pedaling about his beat at midnight Saturday, when he nearly ran afoul a dark object. It was invisible at a short distance because the vicinity, Ninth and Chestnut streets, is poorly lighted, and large oaks and maples arch over it.

Sharply pressing his pedals, Mr. Brautigan silently eased alongside the object, which proved to be a motor car with all lights extinguished. He peered within. In the front seat were a youth and a lass. They were gazing into each other's eyes. Their noses were contentiously touching.

"Ahem," he henned Mr. Brautigan. The youth's head remained immovable. A motor car honked past.

Turns on the Spotlight. Mr. Brautigan tapped on the running board with his nightstick, the while holding his spotlight on them. The youth turned round and observed to Mr. Brautigan:

"Well," echoed the policeman. "Come on. You're pinched."

"Pinched? Why?"

"For parking in a public street."

"But we want to go home," said the young man.

"I want Dayton, O.," said a male voice.

"O, Dayton," called Miss Christenson a moment later, and the desecration was achieved.

While the conversation is progressing, it is meant to explain that Miss Christenson was night distance operator at the Evanston telephone office. Her forte was reunions (by wire) of sweethearts whom distance had separated. For it is in the hours that Miss Christenson was on duty that such calls generally originate. Yet, notwithstanding she performed such valued service for others, Miss Christenson was a stranger to romance.

Her Voice Her Fortune. They called her the girl with the million dollar voice.

The conversation concluded, the masculine voice informed Miss Christenson that:

"I'm Frederick Rohell of Dayton, O. I'm a lieutenant in the army. One of the half dollars I dropped in the toll box was plugged with lead. I just remembered it."

"I'll say you're an honest man," said Miss Christenson, now no longer weak or weary. "If you'll come up to the office you may give me a good half dollar and I'll make a note of it."

He did.

She's Gone to Dayton. Last night a familiar voice was absent from the Evanston exchange.

Helen, Virginia, Ruth, and Minnie were there, but not Evelyn.

"She's gone to Dayton, O.," said Virginia, and a mournful nod was exchanged from Minnie to Helen to Ruth.

"She's to be married tonight to Fred Rohell."

The Inquiring Reporter Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

Today's Question.

Which of Chicago's parks do you like the best? Why?

Where Asked.

On Michigan boulevard between Monroe and Madison streets.

The Answers.

S. E. Baker, 5328 Lake Park avenue, chauffeur—I like Lincoln park the best. It is closest to the loop and thus easier to get to.

It is the prettiest park, I believe. I like to watch the animals, too. It isn't so big that you get lost, but is big enough to take care of the crowds.

Mrs. Marie Hill, 407 South Ashland avenue, housewife—I think Lincoln park is the best of Chicago's many beautiful parks.

There are more things to see. I like animals, and always enjoy going out to see them. There is nothing too.

which I like.

Norman L. Spier, Hotel Sherman, lecturer—I believe I like Jackson park the best.

Every effect is pleasing to the eye. Both winter and summer Jackson park offers all kinds of sports.

Besides it has many opportunities for—er, enjoying the scenery in company with a young lady.

E. E. Hill, 2019 Lane court, multi-graph operator—I like Lincoln park. It is handy to my home and there are so many fine animals there to see.

One could go through the park a thousand times and not get all that is offered to the people. I came from Atlanta, Ga., here, and I do not believe you Chicagoans fully enjoy your parks.

Miss Elsie Devenor, Kansas City, Mo., stenographer—I like Jackson park better than the rest because it is a park one can walk and walk in without ever seeing the same things. There is golf, tennis, rowing, and bathing; there are many fine drives and beautiful scenery.

CONSCIENCE JABS DRIVE FORGER TO GIVE HIMSELF UP

Elmer Blake Faust accosted two strangers at Randolph and La Salle streets last night and inquired the way to the detective bureau.

The strangers were Detective Sergeants Otten and Webber of the bureau. They interrupted Faust and he said:

"I'm a forger. I've been making my living that way. I'm tired of trying to dodge my conscience. I want to face the music."

he said he was from Fort Smith, Ark.; that six years ago he had married a woman named Ruth Mitchell of Whitecourt, Iowa. Her uncle, J. L. Mitchell, was president of the First National bank there. Faust was employed in the bank for a time.

Expensive living caused him to appropriate bank funds. He tried to make up the shortage, but failed, and ran away. Then he started forging checks. He supplied a list of some forty checks to the bureau, the aggregate of which was about $2,000. They were cashed in cities of Iowa, Missouri, and Nebraska. He never operated in Chicago, he said.

SOUTH BEND SO ZIPPY RUNAWAY GIRLS SEEK THE QUIET OF CHICAGO

Ruth Mendenhall and Harriett Archambault, both 16 years old, ran away from South Bend, Ind., last Wednesday and came to Chicago. They registered at the North Shore hotel, 127 Windsor avenue. They had $47. They spent the last dollar Saturday and Ruth telegraphed her grandfather, Marcus Abbott:

"Send us our fare. We want to come home."

Mr. Abbott boarded a train for Chicago. Arriving, he telegraphed to the detective bureau. With two officers he next visited the hotel. The girls were waiting. They wanted dinner.

"We got so tired of life in South Bend that we just wanted some quiet," they said.

"So we came to Chicago. We've had a lovely time here, and feel that we have benefited by the rest cure. No one to bother us or anything. You know South Bend is so full of slip and snap that one doesn't get a moment to oneself."

They left for the devilish place last night.

Girl Goes Job Hunting;
Now Missing a Week

Mrs. Anna Winsberg, 1639 South Spaulding avenue, gave her daughter, Jeannette, sixty cents last Monday, she told the police yesterday, and told her to look for a job. The mother said she had not seen Jeannette since and asked that a search be made for her. She said a friend had told her Jeannette was seen Wednesday and said then she was going to get a job on one of the lake boats.

There's just one reason why "Humoresque" takes its place among the big pictures of the day. It is a great picture because it is a human picture. It brushes away superficialities and goes straight to the heart. You're surprised at the smile on your face—but smile you do. The weep on your face is a tear. You didn't know you were crying. That's "Humoresque".

The picture was VERA GORDON, made from the story by Fannie Hurst, who wrote about a little boy of the New York Ghetto who became a great violinist, gave up his career to go to war—but that's enough about the plot. I want to tell you that Vera Gordon is wonderful as the mother of the little boy.

She had many children and it had been her prayer that one of them might be a musician. Once she had thought her petition answered, she didn't know how to follow the hand organ man?

"How was I to know," said Mamma Kantor, "that it was only the monkey he was after?"

But at last came Leon who, on one of his birthdays, refused a toy cash register that "makes music, as is music," according to his thrifty papa, and wept bitterly for a "feeder".

Of course papa refused, but mamma—Wait till you see this face of mamma as she clasps her sobbing "wonder boy" to her bosom. And a wonder boy he proved to be. A genius who stored his mother's heart with joy and pride and sorrow.

Once in a while a stranger comes along and sweeps you almost off your feet. Vera Gordon is one of these. Dore Davidson as "papa," the kindest old dog in the world despite his ferocious bark, is great. An unbeloved papa, who, convinced against his will, becomes the loudest shouter at the camp meeting.

"It is in answer to a mother's prayer," Mamma Kantor says one time. To which Papa Kantor, much injured, replies with asperity:

"And I suppose a papa's prayers don't count at all?"

Gaston Glass, a nice clean cut young chap, is good as the musician grown. But Bobby Connelly as the young Leon is better. And little Miriam Kantor is one of the sweetest things you've seen for a long time, as a little lame girl tenderly cherishing a dead cat which "she would plant all the same as violets".

Technically "Humoresque" is just about perfect. The cast is a fine one though I can't see why Alma Rubens is featured. For to the mamma and papa this time go the laurels—and Alma is only the sweetheart!

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.
BLUE EYES: HOW CAN YOU make your brownish black jet black? Dye would do it, but then it might do away with your hair, too, in time. Again, your present coloring undoubtedly corresponds with your hair, and you would better leave it as it is. Dyed hair, instead of making your eyes attractive, hardens the face.

MAY F: WHAT FUNNY IDEAS people get. The deplimentary would not take the strength out of your arms, any more than removing the hair with a razor. I have a good deplimentary formula. Do you want it? Send stamped, addressed envelope.

CHEESE

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.
Bar-le-duc.

If you have no more than half a cup of soft cream, the quickest and probably the most satisfactory way to dispose of it is to make cream cheese of it, a delicious cream cheese, too. Add to the half cup of soft cream one-half teaspoon of salt, beat it until smooth with an egg beater, pour it into a strainer, lined with a cheese cloth, so that no dust can come to the cream, and let stand from half a day to a day to drain. Serve on soda crackers, etc.

But suppose you have a cup or more of soft cream, and think that the most thrifty way to dispose of it is to make butter. Perhaps you best for a reasonable time and it does not "come." Why weary yourself with further beating? Add a little salt and let it stand for several hours. In that time the whey will separate from the fluffy part, the latter on top. Pour the whole into a strainer lined with cheese cloth, fold over cloth to cover, and you will get the fluffiest and sweetest of cream cheese.

This latter cheese will spread smooth or it may be left fluffy. When you wish to serve it with currant jelly you can pipe it on a cracker or put it on so as to leave a depression in the middle for the jelly.

Put together well, this is an exceedingly pretty thing for either the final of a luncheon or of the most formal dinner. Or a paper party form may be half filled with the cheese and the jelly added in a glob or layer, according to taste, and served with crackers separately.

The French used to make bar-le-duc when the yuckers' time was worth about nothing, and fruit pulp something that must not be wasted. Our present current jelling nothing in comparison. They did not make jellies.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Interested Spectator.

I was standing on the street car platform on my way to work. Several girls were standing next to me, looking at some pictures that one of the girls had taken while on her vacation. Unconsciously I looked at each picture as it was passed from one girl to the other. Finally the owner of the pictures said: "You better pass them on to that young woman (referring to me), as she seems very much interested."

Bright Sayings of Children

Billy found a stray dog and brought him home. The dog persisted in jumping up on people whether he was wanted or not. One day mother, provoked at this, punished him. The animal went on warring. Billy patted him a while and then said: "Sport, if you want to belong here you just got to mind mother. I know, 'cause I've lived here a long time."

We had moved into a new neighborhood and Harry soon struck up an acquaintance with the people next door. He was sitting on their porch talking with a young man when I called him to support.

"Is that man married?" I asked the little chap.

"O yes, aunty, he's married quite a lot. He has a wife and four kids and a mother-in-law."

Grandpa had promised Jane a ride, and she was very anxious to start. Seeing he still had on his working clothes, she said to grandpa, "Isn't grandpa going to get ready to go?"

Grandpa answered that she thought he was going as he was.

Whereupon Jane said thoughtfully, "Grandpa isn't much of a dresser, is he, grandpa?"

Loop Hounding and Flat Life Sap the Health of City

It was back in 1915 the cartoonist was wont to portray Uncle Sam as a jolly old King Cole individual with rubicund countenance and bay window of gargantuan dimensions. But Uncle Sam has changed, according to Health Commissioner Robertson.

Now look at him—tottering, hump shouldered, chicken chested, thinner than Hector's ghost, dyspeptic, and an addict of all pharmaceutical panaceas.

City driftitis is his ailment. He's no longer the two fisted, muscular gentleman of yore because he abjures the open life of the country and insists upon being cooped up in a stuffy flat and working inside instead of out.

That is the diagnosis contained in the weekly health bulletin of the health commissioner. As a nation we are becoming soft, our mortality rate is increasing, and we are degenerating physically and mentally because of the away from the farm movement.

The mortality is due to diseases involving the vital machines of the body—kidney, heart, and blood vessels. And the diseases arise from lack of exercise in connection with sedentary occupations. We don't play enough. We are becoming a nation of loop-hounds.

"Mental work," the bulletin reads, "calls for and uses more nervous energy and also deprives the system of that natural assistance which physical exercise affords to the various and necessary eliminative processes."

"And that is why the kidneys become overloaded and fail to function. Also, lacking the normal aid which working muscles give to circulation, the arteries become brittle and weak. The heart becomes flabby. . . . And then, presto! one fine day the whole mechanism collapses."

"And that, in brief, is what's the matter with Uncle Sam. If he doesn't play doctor to himself soon he won't need one. He'll need an undertaker."

"And that, in brief, is what's the matter with Uncle Sam. If he doesn't play doctor to himself soon he won't need one. He'll need an undertaker."

OBITUARY.

MRS. AMELIA HOUSTON, widow of the late A. S. Houston, veteran live stock dealer, is dead in New York City, according to word received in Chicago yesterday by Miss Ruth Harper, 6003 Dorchester avenue. Mrs. Houston, who was born in Charleston, S. C., was 58 years old and came to Chicago when a child. She moved to New York two years ago to live with her only son, Stanley Houston.

THE REV. DR. GEORGE F. PEN-TECOST of Darien, Conn., recently of Philadelphia, and widely known Presbyterian preacher and evangelist, died on a New York, New Haven and Hartford train arriving at New York last night.

MISS VIRGINIA SAYRE, formerly principal of St. Margaret's school, died Aug. 7 in Los Angeles at the home of her sister, Mrs. Louisiana Macomb. Miss Sayre also taught in her younger days in the public schools.

WHEAT SMUT
BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Since many fields were affected again this year with smut or bunt, growers are urged to treat every grain of wheat before sowing it this fall. For many years the formaldehyde treatment has been used extensively and effectively.

This fungus disease, which transforms the kernels into smut balls, has been kept in check over the wheat belts by using both the sprinkling and soaking methods. It is believed, however, that the latter method is the best and the one that should be used.

The first requirement is to use good seed and run it through a fanning mill to remove the dust, chaff, and small and shriveled grains before the treatment is applied. This gives better results and reduces the skimming in the soaking vat.

Soak the seed in one pint of formaldehyde mixed with about forty gallons of water. Quick work is necessary, for the seed must not remain in the solution more than ten or fifteen minutes. The solution should be drained off at the end of fifteen minutes and the seed spread out on a level surface to dry. Spread the seed out where the air circulates freely. Avoid placing the seed in piles, as this prevents the formaldehyde gas from escaping and the grain from drying rapidly.

A FRIEND IN NEED
BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Wants Books on Theosophy.
"I wonder if there is any one who would be so very kind as to give or loan me English translations of the works of Confucius, Buddha, Mohammed, the Greek philosophers—in short, any recognized theosophical, philosophical, psychological, or metaphysical writings? I have not money enough even for second hand paper covered editions, if such there be. In return I would be glad to give any favors I could to the nth degree. F. W."

QUICK SHIFTS OF PRICES FEATURE WEEK IN STOCKS

The New York Times.

New York, Aug. 8.—[Special.]—It would be impossible to select the influence which had most weight on last week's financial and commodity markets. Powerful forces were at work, but their manifestations were clearer in direct results than in what they forecast for the next few weeks.

Industrial stocks fell sharply; railroad stocks held their ground fairly well; railroad bonds rose from 1 to 3 points. Future wheat contracts, starting from around $1.04 per bushel, advanced more than 25 cents amid violent fluctuations. Cotton moved downward.

Slump in Exchange.

The European exchange fell rapidly, sterling selling off from its maximum quotation of 172 to 164, before a late recovery lifted the quotation about 10 cents to the pound. Except in the stock and bond market, quick changes of price were a marked feature, denoting a high degree of uncertainty among participants.

The serious situation in Poland undoubtedly tended to increase market depression, but it was noticeable in Wall Street comment that the factor was held less weighty than other matters.

What impressed the market following more than the foreign news was evidence that banking effort to contract loans was growing more insistent, if anything, as time passed. And it seemed as though talk of business reaction was being met by the credit situation as a foremost influence behind sales of stocks.

Price Trend Reversed.

The argument could be presented that the underpinning of the stock market was measurably strengthened by the week's heavy sales.

The widely held theory that a readjustment toward a lower price level is under way in many lines received justification in the movement of stocks, for the share market is believed to discount industrial and business occurrences in advance. Thus a severe break drew the time for stabilizing effort to contract loans was growing more insistent, if anything, as time passed. And it seemed as though talk of business reaction was being met by the credit situation as a foremost influence behind sales of stocks.

U. S. TO OFFER 6% ON NEW ISSUE OF $150,000,000

The United States government will return to offering 6 percent for money in announcing today its intention to issue one year treasury certificates of indebtedness. Such a high rate has been paid on only one previous issue, which was also of one year maturity and was offered in June. This rate, which means a somewhat higher yield when the tax exemption feature of the certificates is taken into consideration, is further evidence of the present credit stringency.

The treasury seeks $150,000,000 through the current certificate issue, which is not acceptable in payment of federal income and profits taxes. The certificates will be dated Aug. 16 and will mature Aug. 16, 1921. Interest is payable semi-annually, there being two interest coupons.

The certificates will be issued in denominations of $500, $1,000, $5,000, $10,000, and $100,000.

FINANCIAL NOTES

Notice has been filed with the secretary of state by the Marville company, Inc., of Manhattan and Wisconsin, Inc., of New York, of an increase in its capital from $5,000,000 to $5,500,000.

A candidate is offering a new issue of $2,000,000 Southern Power and Light company five year 5 percent bond secured gold note, series A, due Jan. 1, 1925, at 98 and accrued interest, to yield about 5 1/2 percent.

The pool in Baldwin Locomotive stock was organized as a matter of fact, the pool is still intact, and though there is no intention of abandoning the market campaign it is reported that considerable stock has been sold in the last few days with the idea of replacing at lower prices the group sponsoring Baldwin in the old Philadelphia crowd. It is said, though the price of Baldwin may decline there is no chance of the pool becoming financially embarrassed. As a matter of fact, the pool is said to have made a number of highly profitable turns in trading stock since its origin.

The amalgamation of the American Ship and Commerce company with the American Shipbuilding company, Inc., with the intention of making it the agency for operating their fleet and those of the several shipping companies controlled by them, is expected to give every satisfactory results to the ship and commerce stockholders. The name of the new organization will be the United American Line, Inc., and it will control eighty-six ships with a deadweight tonnage of 600,000 tons.

Credit, taxation, international trade, insurances are some of the leading questions which will be considered by American bankers at the convention of the American Bankers' association in Washington, Oct. 15-25.

Will YOU Profit by the Experience of the Class Journal Publishing Co.?

The Class Journal Publishing Company of New York City is using 25 Dictaphones in its various departments. Mr. A. B. Swedland, General Manager, says: "These Dictaphones make it possible for us to take care of a much larger volume of correspondence with speed and dispatch. For after-office hours, the Dictaphone is indispensable."

Whether your office is large or small, we are ready to give you a working demonstration.

WAR CLOUDS, TRADE WORRIES, FRET LONDON

BY MANFRED EMANUEL.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[By Special Cable.]

LONDON, Aug. 8.—The August bank holiday week is always a quiet period on the London stock exchange, but the markets rarely have been so idle and depressed as in the week just closed.

Political influences constituted the chief factor. The unsatisfactory situation in Poland created a serious wave of uncertainty and Throgmorton street has taken the natural precaution of marking prices down, and even the rise in the price of gold on the increased value of the dollar caused a rally in the market, but even that was short-lived.

The main cause of the week's decline was the rise in the price of gold on the increased value of the dollar caused a rally in the market, but even that was short-lived. The main cause of the week's decline was the rise in the price of gold on the increased value of the dollar caused a rally in the market, but even that was short-lived.

The position, in fact, is not by any means as healthy as it looks. Unemployment looms large in the near future. Many leading manufacturers have discharged workers because of the heavy burden of taxation and the great increase in the cost of production. Unless there is a better outlet for goods on the continent the coming months threaten to be fraught with a serious labor situation.

The stock exchanges thus are in an unenviable position at the moment and no improvement can be expected until the financial and home positions are considerably clearer than they are today.

CROPS BEAT 1919, IS VIEW OF BANK; CORN GAINS MOST

"Production of important crops will exceed that of last season with the exception of wheat," says the annual crop report of the Continental and Commercial National Bank. "The aggregate production will be in excess of domestic demand. The average yield per acre is larger than for some years."

"In the last two months there has been a complete reversal of the dismal forebodings that attended the planting under climatic restrictions. The ideal conditions have turned the prospect of a partial failure into the prospect of bountiful harvests and promise of better returns in the crops that come to harvest later in the season."

The country can spare 220,000,000 bushels of wheat, or the same as exported the past season, it is stated.

Detailed comparisons of leading crops for two years, the figures of last year being the official returns, are given as follows:

1920 (est.) 1919, bu.
Corn 1,337,000,000 1,348,310,000
Wheat 558,710,000 731,630,000
Spring wheat 1,775,000,000 209,231,000
Winter wheat 534,747,000 940,987,000
Barley 188,418,000 185,718,000
Rye 88,425,000 88,478,000
Hay, ton 83,309,000 81,328,000
Cotton, bale 13,288,000 11,030,000

RAILROAD NOTES

Railroad traffic reports for last week show considerable variation, there being in general a moderate increase over last year, except where the freight movement has been directly affected by the Illinois and Indiana coal strikes.

Contracts for $500,000 worth of new rails for the Detroit, Toledo and Iron railroad have been let. Other improvements, including the freight movement, have been planned.

The government report is due

Chicago at 2:15 p. m. today. Estimates on the corn crop are 2,900,000,000 bushels. Last month the estimate was 2,775,000,000 bushels and last month it was 2,775,000,000 bushels.

Winter wheat is estimated at 540,000,000 bushels and spring wheat at 285,000,000 bushels, a total for all wheat of

1,105,000,000 bushels compared with

1,090,000,000 bushels last month. Oats are estimated at 1,308,000,000 bushels and will compare with 1,308,000,000 bushels last month. Corn will give a yield of 16 bushels per acre and give 147,000,000 bushels of wheat

a condition of 82 for spring wheat and 84 for winter wheat. A condition of 84 for oats would suggest 1,374,000,000 bushels for oats.

Transportation a Factor.

Leading factors in the making of grain prices are particularly wheat, are transportation and the attitude of the farmer in disposing of his crop. The attitude of the farmer is largely a result of the transportation conditions. A bull

MARSHALL FIELD & COMPANY

"Women's costuming—a great art of all times" Already New Models Assure Charm of Autumn Styles

AND, after all, half the pleasure in having new Fall clothes is in having them early. During those first exhilarating cooler days, when everyone comes back to town, you will want especially to be smartly dressed. The many attractive models arriving daily in the Apparel Sections enable you to make selections now among charming materials and styles.

Fur-trimmed Suit

Beaver fur is used most effectively on this Suit of brown zalamia cloth. It faces the collar and trims the side pieces which form the pockets at right.

A trim tailored Suit of tricotine sheen, at left, made on slim, distinctive lines, has steel buttons.

Sixth Floor, South, State.

Smart Wool Frocks

The Frocks illustrated is but representative of many. Navy Cheruit twill is heavily embroidered with black in an effective scroll design. Second from right. Another, not shown, is of navy peachblow with roll collar of tan and little lace vest.

New Wraps and Coats for Street and Motoring

Taupes and browns and other soft colors are used in those lovely soft "warmth-without-weight" materials. The Wrap illustrated is of velveteen, with deep collar and sleeves shaped to fit the circular chenille stitching. A number of colors. Second from right above.

New imported Coats, extremely smart for Autumn wear, are of handwoven tweed. There are excellent motor Coats, too, of velvet Persian with quilted linings, wonderfully warm for driving.

Sixth Floor, North, State.

Bright with Autumn Color Are Skirts for Fall

TODAY we find the separate wool skirt, plaid and plaided, quite indispensable for street and other day-time wear. With a sweater or jaunty sports coat a smart costume is effected.

Two New Skirts Are Sketched

A Scotch plaid Skirt is box plaided in accordance with the season's mode. Another attractive model, of fine serge, is a rich brown and tan plaid, quite suggestive of Autumn.

These Are Specially Priced, $23.50

There are many other attractive Skirts of checked and striped wool materials from $18.50.

Women's Skirt Section, Sixth Floor, South, State.

New Blouses, Filet-trimmed

HERE are dainty Blouses to be coveted, attractive to wear with the Fall tailleur. When you see them you will recognize the excellent values they represent.

Special, $8.75 and $13.50

Very attractive is the long sleeved model of Georgette crepe, trimmed with filet lace, at left, $8.75. The other, charmingly youthful, has short sleeves, and is trimmed with tiny tucks and filet lace. $13.50.

Sixth Floor, Middle, State.

You Can Make Smart Shirts of These Striped Silks

IN attractive striped silk shirts a man can gratify his love of color, since the rest of his costume must necessarily be conservative. For outing wear they are especially desirable.

Striped Silk Shirting, Very Special, the Yard, $2.10

This is an excellent quality of Shirting suitable for both women's and men's shirts. There is a wide selection, including a great number of different patterns and colors. They are an unusual value.

Our August Sale of High and Low Shoes for Men, Women and Children

KEEPING FAITH

IF THOSE who have never patronized our Shoe Section could see the variety, the scope and the character of the Shoes we make it our business to produce and sell, they would feel that at last they had found a place where they could buy with complete confidence.

After all, that is the spirit intelligent merchandising seeks to create. And this is the spirit that permeates our August Sale of Shoes.

Here is gathered perhaps the largest retail stock of Shoes in the country. Here are Shoes contracted for under lower price-levels. And now these are subjected to marked reductions to keep faith with the many customers who expect unusual values during our semi-annual Shoe Sales and who, in many instances, wait for them.

Store Notes

Old, Yet New—In plain Silver, emphasizing that simplicity of line characteristic of our Colonial ancestors. Paul Revere wrought the loveliest pieces of Silver imaginable. A reproduction of a Colonial Coffee Set is in the interesting collection of this antique Silver now on display.
First Floor, South, Wabash.

Hot Day Luncheons What a charmingly cool background has the Tearoom where the Hot Weather Luncheons are served. With comfortable wicker furniture, shaded lamps, and growing things about, an unusually delightful atmosphere is created.
Seventh Floor.

For Picnic Days A desire for one of those attractive Picnic Baskets is kindled at sight, for they are both inexpensive and good to look at. They are made to resemble a hamper with handle attached, and a sturdy leather clasp fastening it securely.
Baskets Section, Fourth Floor, Wabash.

Beads Give Color Note Composition Chains of either green or coral colored Beads give the costume just that color touch so much to be desired. These are attractively priced at $1.50 and $1.75.

The August Sale Brings Unusual Values The New Fur Wraps Show Art of Great Designers

EXQUISITE pelts, perfectly matched, have been used in Coats and Wraps which combine the designer's art and the craftsman's skill with the incomparable beauty of the Fur. Squirrel, mink, seal, caracul and others, many combined with contrasting Furs, fall in soft, gracious lines, presenting, at the same time, the smartest silhouettes conceived in Paris ateliers.

A Few Handsome Models Are Illustrated

A Wrap of Hudson Seal showing the new lines, has a deep, overcape. You will note particularly the little vest, which is wonderfully smart. Shown at left.

A Lovely Mink Wrap is second from the right. It has a deep, soft collar and wide cuffs of the same, and is lined with gold and colored brocade.

Of Seal Is the Short Cape with deep, luxurious collar, which shows a silk cord running through the bottom and drawing it into a cunning little blouse if desired. Second.

Caracul of Exquisite Quality makes the Wrap at the right. This is an unusual model with long overcape. The wide rolling collar is of Kolinsky.

Sixth Floor, North, Wabash.

Reduced Models

Custom Apparel Section A LOVELY Frock or so for the trip suddenly planned may be found among these Models which are now reduced.

There are lingerie and other Summer Frocks, at prices decidedly low for the distinctive, individual type of Frocks which they represent.

Ninth Floor, North, State.

"Blue Rose"

Delights and Refreshes in Summer Weather

IN hot weather especially are good Toilet Preparations essential, since they add so greatly to your comfort and appearance. "Blue Rose" Talcum and Face Powders are cool and refreshing to the skin and give it that delicate, clear look a skin must always have to be lovely. They are made in our own laboratories.

Face Powder, $1.75. Talcum Powder, 50c.

First Floor, North, State.

Silk Sweaters

Show Lovely Colors

A silk Sweater gives the distinctive color note to the smartest of sports costumes, and is therefore quite indispensable to the well-considered Summer wardrobe.

These are beautifully made, and may be had in all the soft Summer shades. A becoming feature is the rolling collar formed from the side panels. $35. There are many others equally attractive.

These Tubable Corsets

Are for All Sports Wear

IN addition to the fact that they can be washed, a most important thing for Summer Corsets, they are of light-weight Tricot mesh, wonderfully cool and comfortable. Their very light boning makes them particularly supple and gives them freedom to the body that you want for tennis, golf and swimming.

Both of these Corsets shown above are topless with elastic at waistline, $7.50 and $12.

Other Summer Corsets, of many different models, $2.75 up.

Brassieres for swimming and all athletic wear, 50c up.
